

Better Drainage Service Among Area's Key Challenges of 1973

By WILLIAM F. WINTER
Editor
(First of a series)

Could 1972 in the Quad-Cities be summed up with the names of two nine-year-old boys, Anthony McCrea and John Allen Young, whose health problems brought a generous outpouring of interest and help from this community?

That may be an oversimplification of a busy year. But a single issue—the formation of new levee and sanitary districts—may accurately summarize the hopes and fears of Quad-Cities for the new year which began this week.

The challenge to provide effective, efficient levee-sanitary district services—largely accomplished through a Dec. 22, 1972, law and now being tested in the courts—relates directly to two of the chief Quad-City needs of 1973:

1. Provision of more adequate drainage through local, state and federal action.

2. Assurance that the tax burden will be kept within reasonable bounds by making each dollar collected deliver 100 cents' worth of essential governmental supplies and services.

A third 1973 issue could be added, not involving the levee district:

3. Fostering of both the image and reality of a skilled and productive labor-management team.

Just as a locally-directed, cohesive levee-sanitary district could aid the causes of drainage and fiscal control, some new tool or program is needed to aid industrial preservation and development.

The urgency of a new approach to providing job opportunities was dramatized during 1972 by the closing of the Miles Laboratories plant and its successor there, Corn Sweeteners; and the decision by General

Steel Industries to shut down its Castings Division plant here when existing orders are filled in 1973.

A Castings Division executive sought at one point to explain his goals and methods by urging a "biggest order" of production orders obtained through a flexible, fully-competitive staff. The emphasis should not be on the order, he said, but on a small or dwindling pile, he said, but rather to earn more abundance for the entire community and region.

His illustration could be applied to the St. Louis metropolitan region, which is worried because its economic growth is not keeping pace with the national average.

Instead of unselfishly seeking a bigger economic pie for the entire bi-state region, some "leaders" have instead worried more about their slice and have "cut up" the Illinois portion damagingly, using innuendo and influence.

Not only has there been a one-sided approach to industrial development; pro-Missouri bias also has shown up in such matters as United Fund giving.

Rightful Illinois shares of UP funds collected at a number of federal agencies and manufacturing firms were pirated away by the St. Louis United Fund in 1972, during the 1973 operation of Quad-City service and welfare agencies.

This Missouri vs. Illinois climate forms the background for a fourth 1973 challenge:

4. Restraint of the headlong race toward regional governmental super-power, with loss of local autonomy.

Some of the same individuals seeking direct control of local land use and development through the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council also have been active in trying to impede a variety of Illinois projects, including the major international airport proposed for Columbia-Waterloo.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

Council Reluctant to Help Doherty and Vesci Drainage

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

Protests that drainage of Doherty Slough in a temporary emergency program proposed by the state may overload the Nameoki drainage canal during heavy rains and flood other areas were voiced by several aldermen Tuesday night.

The City Council delayed until Jan. 15 meeting any action toward approving the state plan.

An hour-long discussion was held on the Doherty Slough drainage problem — which affects wide areas of Nameoki Township as well as areas inside the city limits.

Council members decided to postpone any immediate decisions when they were informed that John Guillo, chief engineer of the Illinois Division of Waterways, is to visit Granite City Monday morning.

Alderman Thomas Boker of the Seventh Ward supported the state drainage plan.

"We may be helping people in Nameoki Township, but we also are helping ourselves in this plan," he said.

"When Doherty floods, the people also are flooded on Lynch and Vesci avenues, on Sara Street and other parts of the city in that area."

"By relieving flooding of Doherty Slough, we will relieve flooding in that part of the city," Parmlay told the council he is concerned "about what is going to happen when stormwater comes roaring down the new drainage line from widened Route 203 to the Nameoki ditch, along with additional water from Doherty Slough."

"Are we going to drain one problem to make another problem?" Parmlay asked.

Parmlay said he believes that Guillo should appear before the council and explain "what he wants."

He said the level of Horseshoe Lake has not been lowered and that the Nameoki ditch could create a backup of water "that will blow the drainpipes right out of the houses."

If that happens, Parmlay said, "I warn you now that I'll be the first to advise those people to sue the city for damages."

Alderman Frank Greenwald commented that during the 19 months he has been on the council "I've heard so much about what needs to be done and what should be done, but nothing gets done. Everything here is talk, talk, talk. I'm sick of it."

Asked by Boker for his opinion on the state's proposed drainage plan, Street Superintendent Lloyd Pertell said he does not believe the program will solve the problem.

OATH OF OFFICE as Granite City Township assessor was administered Wednesday to Von Dee Cruse, left, by City Clerk Robert Stevens. Cruse was appointed to the assessor's post by the Granite City Town Board Tuesday night. He succeeds

James W. Barton who has assumed his duties as Madison County Supervisor of Assessments. Cruse will seek election to the assessor post in the April 3 election, but meanwhile will occupy the office by appointment.

Tax Post To Cruse

Harold Von Dee Cruse, 2401 Edwards St., was appointed Tuesday night as assessor of Granite City Township to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of James W. Barton who has held the post for the past seven years.

Cruse, a former Granite City alderman and township assessor, will take over the assessor's office immediately, since Barton's appointment as Madison County Supervisor of Assessments became effective Jan. 1.

Cruse's appointment was made by the Granite City Council convened as the town board in a regular meeting session Tuesday night. Barton submitted a letter of resignation in which he expressed appreciation for the cooperation given him by the city council during his seven years in the assessor's office.

Cruse's name was placed before the board on a motion for appointment by Alderman Walter Nunn. Nominations then were closed and the appointment was by acclamation.

Mayor Donald Parmlay described Cruse's appointment as "a very wise move because he has considerable experience in this office."

Cruse told the board that he will be a candidate for election to the assessor's post in the April 3 township election.

He will serve by appointment until Jan. 1, 1974, however, since state law now provides that the terms of elected assessors do not begin until Jan. 1 of the year following election.

Cruse, 48, is a lifelong resident of Granite City. He owns and operates Jacob Meyer's Tavern at 2401 Edwards St.

He served seven years as alderman in the old Granite City Ward Six, and was Granite City Township assessor for eight years. He formerly served as a clerk of the circuit court and worked as a mail carrier for the Granite City post office.

The town board also approved bills of $2,322 payable out of the town fund, and $6,105 payable from the general assistance fund.

Study Groups to Be Appointed in Madison

By MARION BARTOSIAK
Press-Record Staff Writer

Mayor Mike Sasyk will appoint committees next week to advance plans for the development of a commercial shopping center and of homes for senior citizens, he told the Madison City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

Development of the projects has been under discussion by city officials and business and civic interests in the city, and "we hope to get started this year," the mayor said.

In another announcement, the council license committee is to meet with the city legal department at 7 p.m. Tuesday to study revamping of the city license system.

The committee is to make recommendations on license changes.

The City Council approved requests for alley lights between the 1800 block of Fifth and Sixth streets, between Second and Third streets, at Washington Avenue building between Fourth and Fifth streets and a street light on Jefferson Street between Third Street and Line Alley.

A request for a stop sign at Rhodes and Farish streets was referred to the legal department.

It was announced that bids for the purchase of 1973 motor fuel tax street maintenance materials will be opened and a contract let at 11 a.m. Jan. 30 in the office of the city clerk.

A report by the Madison Fire Department for the last four months of 1972 showed it responded to 22 calls and that losses from fires totaled $12,175. The council approved bids and salaries totaling $14,251.

Fatalities Drop to 30 But Crashes Top 2,200

The number of traffic accidents in the Quad-Cities during 1972 rose sharply over the total of the previous year, but the area's traffic fatality ratio dropped well below the all-time fatality record set in 1971, statistics compiled by the Press-Record showed today.

Despite the fact that there were 2,263 traffic accidents recorded in the Quad-Cities during the 12 months of 1972, an increase of 368 over the 1,895 occurring in 1971, the larger number of accidents resulted in a reduced number of traffic deaths.

Accident statistics list a total of 30 fatalities in Quad-City accidents during 1972, a decline of 16 from the total of 46 occurring in 1971.

This is a decrease of 34.8% in the traffic death ratio below last year's figure. The 1971 total of 46 fatalities was a record for the Quad-Cities.

The total of 911 persons injured in area accidents last year was an increase of 16 over the 895 area injury cases reported in 1971—again in spite of the larger number of accidents.

On the basis of 2,263 accidents throughout the year, the area experienced an average of 6.2 accidents each day of the year, while the total of 911 injury cases represents an average of 2.5 persons injured each day in area mishaps.

The month of December produced the largest number of traffic accidents in any single month of the year, a total of 261, as well as the largest number of accident injury cases, a total of 110.

This was an increase of 49 over the total of 216 accidents recorded in November.

And it was a rise of 85 over the 176 accidents occurring in the Quad-Cities in December 1971.

The largest number of accident deaths in any single month of the year — a total of seven — was reported in October. Three traffic deaths occurred each in January, February, March, July, August and December, while two were recorded in November.

One traffic death was reported each in May, June and September. April was the only month of the year in which no traffic fatalities occurred.

The month of October, in which the seven fatalities occurred, also produced the second largest number of accidents and injury cases. A total of 229 accidents was reported in October, with 107 persons injured.

Monthly totals of accidents, injuries and fatalities during 1972, in that order, are:

January, 219-45-3; February, 208-45-3; March, 127-52-3; April, 176-64-1; May, 147-83-1; June, 176-64-1; July, 161-85-3; August, 151-102-3; September, 101-67-1; October, 229-107-7; November, 216-55-2; December, 261-110-3.

Masked Robber Gets Drugs, Cash At Drug Store

An armed robber obtained a small bottle of drugs and $60 to $100 at Sheridan's Drug Store, 2201 State St., and escaped in a light colored auto at 11:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Phil Sheridan, proprietor, told police that a man wearing a ski mask came to the prescription counter, displayed a small dark pistol and asked for prelude, cocaine and desbutal.

Sheridan said he told the rob-

From Levee Hearing in St. Clair Seek Venue Change

A change of venue has been requested by Madison Levee Board members William Ebersold and Russell Robinson at a hearing set for 10 a.m. Friday in the St. Clair County Circuit Court.

A temporary restraining order has been issued by St. Clair Circuit Judge Robert Gagen to bar appointment of additional members to either the St. Clair or Madison boards — created Dec. 22 by a new state law dividing the East Side Levee and Sanitary District along the county line.

The temporary injunction also bars the two new districts from going into operation, and seeks to extend the life of the old district.

Ebersold and Robinson, Quad-City residents, yesterday filed a request for a change of venue from the Belleville hearing. They alleged they "will not receive a fair and impartial trial" if the case is heard by a judge of the 20th Judicial Circuit, which includes St. Clair County.

Meanwhile, Randall J. Robertson, a special assistant attorney general, has been designated by Attorney General William Scott to represent the state at tomorrow's hearing.

He will ask Judge Gagen to cancel the order issued Dec. 28 so that the Madison District board can be expanded and have a quorum.

The St. Clair board could function whenever the three southern-half holdovers decide to function as a St. Clair rather than an East Side board.

Both new boards are to be brought up to full membership of five each by the governor, based on lists submitted by legislators.

Ebersold and Robinson succeeded Tuesday in obtaining a temporary order from Circuit Judge William Beatty at the Madison County Courthouse freeing disbursement of any funds of the old district until an appointment can be made.

The three St. Clair board members plan to ask today for Beatty's order to be dissolved.

The three St. Clair County trustees met at the levee board offices in East St. Louis Wednesday morning to consider the 1973 fiscal budget and appropriation bill, but took no action because of litigation in both the St. Clair and Madison County circuit courts.

The budget meeting was rescheduled for Jan. 10.

Personal Income May Top Trillion Dollars in 1973

The probability of personal income reaching the trillion dollar mark in 1973 is predicted by George Putnam, chairman of the Investment Company Institute, in an economic forecast for the year. He looks for Gross National Product to increase $10 billion in 1973, a rise of 6% after inflation allowing for a 3% increase in prices.

With consumers feeling more optimistic and relaxing the tight hold on their purse strings, one of the strongest components of the 1973 outlook is consumer durables, with an increase of over 12% predicted for the new year.

Plant and equipment spending, which experienced heavy gains in 1972, are expected to show slightly lower rates of growth. But both should be substantially ahead of 1972.

Slightly less than in the year just ended, 2.3 million housing starts are predicted for 1973. Inventory building, which picked up in the fourth quarter of 1972, should continue into 1973 and reach the $10-billion level.

Net exports, which experienced close to a $4 billion deficit in 1972, should show substantial improvement to a breakeven or slight surplus figure.

Putnam feels "there is more reason for optimism concerning the world position of the dollar than in quite some time. There now appears to be a good possibility of an upward revaluation of the Japanese yen early in 1973 and possibly a downward revaluation of the pound before that."

He expects some restraint in federal spending in 1973, with an estimated increase of about 4%. "The end of the war in Vietnam would be a help in this area, but would not materially change the forecast, which assumes further winding down of an already much re-

DeMolays Plan Chili Supper, Welcome Member

The James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will hold its annual chili supper on Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the Masonic Temple.

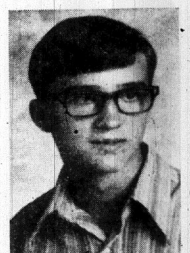

Plans for the chapter's main fund-raising event were made at a meeting Tuesday night conducted by David Ledbetter, master counselor.

The chapter welcomed a new member, William Todd, who transferred from the Coal Belt Chapter at Marion, Ill. He is a junior at Granite City High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Todd. He served as junior counselor and junior inquisitor at Marion.

A report on the chapter's annual visit to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children on Dec. 23 was presented by John Young. Members took Christmas gifts collected at their previous meeting, including dolls dressed by local residents in the area's dress-doll contest. They also toured the facilities.

Gerry Todd reported the results of the Indoor Olympics held by the chapter last Friday and Saturday at the Masonic Temple.

Winning first-place trophies were John Young, ping pong; Joe Young, darts; Gerry Todd, hockey; John Young, pool; Jim Boyd, chess; Joe Swigert, checkers; and John and Joe Young, pinhole.

WILLIAM TODD

DeMolays will participate in the public installation of officers for Granite City Chapter 221, Royal Arch Masons, sponsoring body for the youth group, by presenting the Nine O'Clock Interpolation.

Following the business meeting a wrestling contest was held and refreshments were served by the Mother's Club. Mrs. Frankie Hickey, new president of the Mother's Club, conducted her first meeting.

SLIMMEST HOLIDAY VISITOR in memory was the Santa who visited holiday parties of Nameoki School kindergarten pupils. Stephen Branding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Branding, portrayed the jolly but non-fat symbol of the Yule season. Mrs. Kay Robbins and Mrs. Joyce Tracy directed youngsters in performing as toy soldiers, bouncing balls, trains, dolls, ponies and ice skaters from Santa's workshop.

Clothing Center Seeks Warm Coats for Boys

The Nearly New Clothing Center, 1255 Niedringhaus Ave., urgently needs several good, warm overcoats in boys' sizes. Orders for coats at the center, which provides clothing to school-age youngsters, remain unfilled at the present time, a spokesman said.

The coats should be warm and suitable for school wear, a volunteer worker said. Among the specific sizes required immediately are 3, 4, 10, 14 and 18. However, coats in other sizes also can be put to good use, it was learned.

Donors unable to bring the garments to the center may call Mrs. Lillian Douglas, at 576-2383, for pickup service. The Nearly New Clothing Center is operated by the Quad-City Council of Church Women United.

Dealer Hit on Head By Man With Blackjack

Frank Ebling, 1743 Edison Ave., reported at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday that he was struck on the head with a blackjack, suffering a cut, by a man who visited him to purchase a deep freeze.

Ebling said he took the customer to his used furniture shop across the street, and after a unit was selected, the two returned to the Ebling home where the customer insisted on paying a deposit. The victim said when he bent over to obtain a piece of paper, the attack occurred.

The assailant left the house when Ebling went to get a shotgun, police were told. Ebling was advised to sign a complaint.

PARKED AUTO STRUCK

While parked next to a gas-line pump at the Nameoki Clark Service Station, Nameoki Road and Washington Avenue on Tuesday, the auto of Charles Milhouser, 25 Riviera Drive, was struck by another auto whose driver apparently was unaware of the mishap and left. Damage was minor.

GIRL, 13, ARRESTED

A girl, 13, was charged with theft of a blouse from the P. N. Hirsch Store, 1226 Nineteenth St., after two juvenile girls were seen leaving the store. It was reported at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. The two were arrested on the third floor of the Tri-Cor Medical Building. The other girl was released.

State Asks Labor, Management Support in Requiring Alcoholics to Obtain Treatment

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield — The man who breaks a leg probably needs to be treated at a hospital or clinic and the man who is breaking his life apart with alcoholic may best be treated right in the office or factory where he works.

This unusual "prescription" comes from Ray Kelly, coordinator of Industrial Employee Programs for the Illinois Mental Health Department.

Unless the man with the broken leg sustained his injury fleeing from an irate person or sneaking out with the petty cash box, his problem isn't likely to cost him his family or his job.

The alcoholic, however, has a splendid chance of losing both and lives in constant dread of it. "We have found," Kelly says, "that the two things the alcoholic wants to hold on to more desperately than anything else are his family and his job — they take precedence over his health, even his life, or his material possessions."

"So if we can put pressure on him with the threat of a job loss, we can create a crisis for him earlier than it would otherwise be reached."

January has been designated as "Alcoholism Month."

With an estimated five percent of the nation's work force believed to be alcoholics and another five percent to be alcohol abusers, industry has 4.5 million good reasons to pay more attention to the observance.

Aside from the human waste, alcoholism is economically a disaster, Kelly says, with staggering drinkers costing industry a staggering total of $10 billion a year in absenteeism, medical expenses and poor job performance.

Employees with drinking problems lose an average of 22 working days a year, or a full work month annually.

Kelly's approach is first to use a humane line — the alcoholic is sick, his sickness is hurting him, his family and his community, and he can and should be helped.

If that doesn't work, he uses the fiscal approach — the alcoholic can conservatively cost a company $2,000 a year.

If a company has 5,000 workers the five percent average indicates they will have 250 alcoholics on the force who can be costing the company a minimum of $500,000 a year.

Illinois has just received a $1.3 million formula grant to help support its program. The money, among other things, will let Kelly add six men to his staff and thereby reach industry throughout the state.

Stressing the need for full support by both labor and management, Kelly insists that participating companies draw up written policies on alcoholism.

One key position is that — while the decision to seek diagnosis and treatment of any illness is always the worker's own privilege — his refusal to do so does not need to be tolerated if it affects his job performance.

Among companies with successful programs, Kelly said, one major implementer has reported a drop in absenteeism from eight to three percent.

A major utility reduced absences from an average of 14 days to four days a year.

MORE ABOUT Council

"With the pumps and the outlets they have proposed," Portell said, "the amount of drainage into the ditch won't be a drop in the bucket to what is needed."

The Doherty Slough drainage program outlined by Guillou at a meeting here Dec. 27 calls for installation of an underground 10-inch stormwater sewer line from the south end of the slough area, passing south under Pontoon Road and then turning west until it joins the present 24-inch Amos Avenue sewer and into Nameoki Ditch.

The program is considered a temporary measure until development of a $4.5 million improvement project proposed by Governor Richard B. Ogilvie.

Cooperation by Granite City officials is considered necessary to the emergency program because of the need to use the Amos Avenue right-of-way and for construction of the proposed new line inside the city.

The total was well above the 27.05 inches recorded for 1971, which was 7.40 inches below normal.

The wettest months of the year were April at 6.51 inches, November at 5.69 inches, September at 5.65 inches and May at 5.01 inches. The driest were January with .54 inches, June with .59, October with .85, and February with .99.

Six of the months—January, February, March, June, July and October—had measurements below the monthly normals, while the others were well above normal.

City Contracts For Planning Traffic Controls

The Granite City Council approved Tuesday night a $35,200 contract with Harland Bartholomew & Associates, Clayton, Mo. planning engineers, to prepare detailed plans for installation of safety improvements at five of the city's major intersections.

The council agreed to guarantee the engineering costs for improvements of all five intersections after first considering a proposal for engineering work only at the Nameoki and Johnson Road intersection.

Harold Thurmond, a representative of the engineering firm, told the council that planning for the Nameoki-Johnson project would cost about $12,800, while engineering work for traffic control revision at four other intersections along Madison avenue would cost the city approximately $22,400.

The improvements have been scheduled by the city under the federal Traffic Operation Program to improve the Capacity and Safety (Topics) of city streets.

Cost of the Nameoki-Johnson intersection improvement has been estimated at $83,500, and the four Madison Avenue intersection improvements have been estimated at $155,000.

The council also received five bids for furnishing a three-quarter-ton pickup truck for the sewage treatment plant. Bids included: B. E. Hohl Co., $2,059; Brewer Motor Co., $2,995; Granite City Dodge, $3,032; Matthews Chevrolet Co., $3,083, and Butler Chevrolet, $2,994.

Chief of Police Ronald Veizer was authorized to attend the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police conference at Arlington Heights, Ill. Jan. 27-30, and authorized $150 expenses.

U.S. Study Favors Illinois Airport Site, Saunders Says

A Presidential Advisory Commission report released in Washington Tuesday actually supports the proposal for construction of a major airport at the Columbia-Waterloo site, rather than favoring expansion of Lambert Airport at St. Louis.

Arthur H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, said today.

While the theme of the report on national aviation needs called for improved use of present airport facilities instead of construction of new large airports, the factors supporting the arguments in the study are "exactly the reverse" of those in the Illinois-Missouri airport dispute.

Saunders said the report contends the cost of improving existing airports is less, and that the environmental impact would be less. In the case of the Columbia-Waterloo airport project, he added, the cost of the new airport will be less than improvement of Lambert, and the environmental impact in the Illinois area far less than that in St. Louis.

"The problems of cost and environmental impact cited by the Presidential Advisory Commission report on the problems in meeting aviation needs across the country are two of the most fundamental reasons for building a new metropolitan St. Louis airport at the Columbia-Waterloo location."

ports, and the environmental impact of the new facilities. In St. Louis, the situation is exactly the opposite.

"It will cost far less to build the Columbia-Waterloo airport than to make the very limited expansion of Lambert envisioned by the Lambert 2000 brochure."

"Further, the airport at Columbia-Waterloo will greatly reduce the environmental impact of commercial aviation in the St. Louis area. Material issued by the backers of the Lambert 2000 proposal plainly shows that scores of businesses and hundreds of families will face relocation problems, and that thousands of business workers and families will be subjected to intolerable noise levels."

"At Columbia-Waterloo, on the other hand, fewer than 500 persons will need to be relocated, and the high noise area will be confined entirely to the airport site."

"Finally, with so few suitable large airport sites available nationally, construction of the airport at Columbia-Waterloo will serve an essential national need. This points up the unprecedented economic opportunity that the new airport will bring to the people throughout the St. Louis region."

Licenses Issued

Marriage licenses have been issued in St. Louis to Frank E. Rhodes and Myrtle A. Rhodes, both of Granite City, and David R. Hodges of Madison and Linda L. Green of East St. Louis.

PTA CONTEST RESULTS showed Allen Kirgan had earned third place in Area PTA student poster judging. ## State Boiler Inspector Indicted, Allegedly Sought a $2,000 Bribe

An investigation by Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott culminated Tuesday in a Lake County grand jury indictment of Deputy State Boiler Inspector Daniel M. Rubino of Lansing, Ill.

Rubino was indicted on charges of official misconduct for allegedly soliciting a $2,000 bribe from James McDonough of Gurnee, owner of McDonough Plumbing and Heating Co. of Waukegan, the contractor responsible for installing three new boilers at Outboard Marine Corporation, Waukegan.

McDonough said that Rubino asked for the $2,000 in return for overlooking the state boiler code specifications and approving the three new boilers.

Gayle Franzen, investigator for Attorney General Scott, testified at Tuesday's grand jury hearings in Waukegan.

Rubino's indictment was sought by Lake County State's Attorney Jack Hoogasian, to whom Scott turned over the results of his investigation. Rubino was suspended from his state employment Dec. 6 when Scott notified the department that Rubino was under investigation. Rubino has been employed by the department since 1961.

Scott's investigation showed that an insurance inspector had twice disapproved the three new boilers, refusing to issue an insurance policy on them until the state approval was forthcoming.

Lake County State's Attorney Hoogasian charged Tuesday that Rubino solicited and received the $2,000 on Jan. 26, 1972.

duties set out in the aforesaid statute enacted by the General Assembly and signed by the governor."

The former trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District "are without lawful warrant to secure and spend these moneys in the name of the non-existent East Side Levee District," Beatty found.

cessed until Jan. 11 when "everything is expected to be settled," the trustees said.

Rommel Wilbon of East St. Louis, who was elected president of the old East Side Levee and Sanitary District Board, prior to the legislative split along county lines, suggested during the meeting that the old levee district continue operating because of emergencies created by heavy rains during the past few weeks.

Wilbon said the district is operating without funds and may have to use supervisory personnel to keep the pumps running "in both Madison and St. Clair Counties." The other St. Clair trustees are Charles Meyers and Jack Scoville.

Named as defendants in the suit filed by Robinson and Rhoads were the First National Bank of East St. Louis, Lincoln Trailways Bank of Fairview Heights, The Bank of Cahokia, The First National Bank of Cahokia, The First National Bank of Madison, St. Clair County Treasurer Dan E. Costello, Madison County Treasurer

George Musso, Wilbon, Scoville and Meyers.

Judge Beatty found that "immediate and irreparable injury" would result to the plaintiffs unless the restraining order was issued.

He ruled from the allegations of the complaint that the East Side Levee and Sanitary District "has ceased to exist as of Dec. 22, 1972."

The court further finds that the money collected for use by the old, now non-existent East Side Levee and Sanitary District now being held in defendant banks and by the defendant treasurers of Madison and St. Clair counties should properly be held by said defendants until divided pursuant to the aforesaid law between the new Madison County Levee and Sanitary District and the new St. Clair County Levee and Sanitary District," Judge Beatty said.

"The court further finds that such an unauthorized disbursement of these funds and moneys would do irreparable harm to the taxpayers and citizens of the area being served by the Madison County Levee and Sanitary District."

"The district must have such funds and moneys to properly carry out the

Shrine Oriental Band Elects; Reviews Year

At a regular business meeting of the Shrine Oriental Band Tuesday night, Jack Grissom of East Alton, was elected to serve as president for 1973.

Other officers elected are Joseph Wallace, vice-president; Wayne Melvick, secretary; and Carl Roach, treasurer. All three are Granite City residents.

Raymond Isom, retiring secretary, gave a comprehensive report of band activities during the past year. The band made over 30 public appearances, establishing a new record, including performances in the local area last June as a participant in the Ainsworth Parade in Granite City and Belleville.

The Shrine music group appeared at the Great Lakes Shrine Association convention held in September at St. Louis and also performed at Busch Stadium during the convention period.

Grissom spoke briefly of coming events, including the Great Lakes Association of Shrine Oriental Bands convention to be held at Rockford in June. The association consists of Shrine Temples in the state of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and the Province of Ontario, Canada.

Raymond Rogers serves as band manager, with Avery Schermer as director; Raymond Isom, drum major and Jack Stansbery as historian. Joseph Wallace is public relations and publicity director for the group.

Flu-Type Illness Not In Quad-Cities—Yet!

Quad-Cities temporarily are escaping the influenza-type illness reported hitting residents in the city of St. Louis and apparently spreading epidemic proportions throughout the Missouri side of the metropolitan area, if the absence of cases at St. Elizabeth Hospital is any indication.

Emergency room personnel said a few such cases involving the flu-like ailment have been treated at the local hospital, the usual barometer for determining the extent of a virus-caused outbreak of any major scope within a community.

The number receiving treatment at St. Elizabeth Hospital, however, does not yet indicate the flu is widespread in the Quad-Cities at present.

Within the past 24-hour period, six youngsters and nine adults have been examined in the emergency room for various flu-type symptoms, ranging from coughs, fever, vomiting, sore throat and carache. None of which has been primarily designated as "flu."

Hundreds of St. Louisans have gone to hospital emergency rooms there since the weekend seeking relief from the flu-type symptoms, according to the St. Louis acting health commissioner. Fewer persons have sought aid at St. Louis County medical facilities, although a slight increase has been noted at several hospitals.

About two weeks of investigation will be necessary to determine whether the influenza is of the Hong Kong or the London variety, Dr. Helen Bruce of St. Louis said this week. Those seeking medical aid have the usual flu symptoms—chills, fever, stomach upset, weakness and upper-respiratory congestion. The illness seems to last three to four days in most cases.

It has been noted that many persons suffering from the current wave of flu are older people, a situation contrary to most influenza outbreaks that strike high school and college-aged persons first, then youngsters and older adults. The pattern is unusual, the St. Louis spokesman said.

ber that he did not keep cocaine or debauch and gave him a small bottle of pretzels. The man then said, "give me money," and Sheridan reported he gave the bandit an undetermined amount from the cash register.

RALPH Z. MILLER JR. AND FRIEND. Newly-appointed executive vice-president of Shannonside Holdings, Ltd., the former Granite Cityan reviews photos of movie actor Cary Grant approving plans for his new home and selecting its location at Shannonside Village, Ireland. Grant is a director of the firm, which is building residences for sale to Americans. Grant in the top picture is shown visiting Ireland to aid in choosing a home site; he drank from St. Martin's Holy Well, located at the new village.

Ralph Miller Jr. Moving Americans to the Shannon River for Home Away from Home

Ralph Z. Miller Jr., a Granite City native, has been appointed executive vice-president of Shannonside Holdings, Ltd., according to the Irish firm headquartered in Aurora, Ill.

The company is building a new $45 million environment-oriented vacation/second-home community on the Shannon River in Ireland. It is called Shannonside Village, and is the first such community to win Irish government approval.

Miller, who now lives in Shelby, N.C., long has been involved as an officer or marketing consultant with the giants of U.S. real estate development, including Gulf American Land Corp., Boise Cascade, U.S. Land, Hospitality Caravans and the Lansing Corp. The collective sales of these firms total more than $200 million.

"After marketing land all over the United States," Miller said, "I welcomed the opportunity to become involved with a European operation. It was particularly attractive to me because of the chance to become part of a brand-new town which is environment oriented."

Miller said the Irish project on the Shannon River estuary offers a peaceful, uncrowded simple lifestyle among kind, hospitable people. He said the project is not for "swingers" but for people who enjoy nature and a relaxed, slow-paced way of life.

He noted that in a recent Irish newspaper interview, Cary Grant, one of the firm's directors, had stated his intention of moving to Shannonside Village and educating his six-year-old daughter in Ireland.

The preliminary plans for Grant's home at Shannonside have been completed, Miller said. Actor and producer Jack Lemmon and playwright Jerry Herman also are investors, according to Miller.

"Although our dwellings will start at $24,900," he said, "those Americans and Europeans who can afford them will enjoy a peaceful atmosphere among the delightful and hospitable Irish. The lifestyle in County Clare is quiet, kind and, most important, lifestyle in County Clare is quiet, kind and, most important, uncrowded."

Miller emphasized that although the project's dwellings would have a typical Irish exterior (even a few with thatched roofs), purchasers will not be "roughing it."

The interiors, he said, would be pure American in comfort, conveniences and appliances.

Miller said the first construction phase of Shannonside Village's championship golf course is complete; road construction is under way; and building of cottages and "village houses" will begin shortly.

"A graduate of Washington University in St. Louis, Miller is married to the former Joyce and Patricia Vancil of Herrin, Ill. They have two daughters, Nikki, 19, who attends Iowa State, and Patti Lynn, 12, who attends the sixth grade in Shelby.

Emergency Appeal for O-Negative Blood Nets Donors from Wide Area

Kindness towards one's fellow man did not stop with the Christmas season, a Granite City woman and her family discovered late Tuesday night.

Mrs. David (Margaret) Parker, 30, of 2410 Olive St., Tuesday received the blood but remains in critical condition today in the hospital's Intensive Care Unit.

A brief announcement appealing for O-Negative blood over four St. Louis radio stations about 11 o'clock that night brought a flood of response from residents of the two-state area.

The broadcasters noted the situation was an emergency and that 10 pints of the special blood type were required. They also asked those listening whose blood would qualify to call the Granite City hospital.

At 11:20 a.m., over Radio Station KMOX, announcer Jim Warnecke expressed the hospital staff's appreciation and reported a sufficient number of donors had responded.

St. Elizabeth administrators said 20 donors reported to the hospital and offered blood, coming here from such widespread locales as Dorsey, Ill., and Shrewsbury, Mo.

Many callers were unaware of the hospital's precise location and sought driving directions, a spokesman noted.

From among the 20 volunteers arriving at St. Elizabeth Hospital, 18 donors were able to provide the blood. One donor suffering the after-effects of a bout with the flu had to be turned down, the hospital staff said.

In addition to the 20, a list of prospective donors was compiled from other persons calling in and volunteering O-Negative type blood.

Members of the latter group, phoning from Overland, St. Louis, Ferguson, Florissant and St. Charles, Mo., and Alton and Edwardsville, offered to come to the hospital if more blood was needed.

As late as 2 a.m. Wednesday, several donors remained at the hospital waiting patiently for their turn to give blood, a staff member reported.

Persons serving as donors came here from the Illinois communities of Dorsey, East Alton, Wood River, Madison and Granite City, and from Overland, St. Louis, Shrewsbury and St. Charles in Missouri.

Several hospital employees who shifts ended at 11 p.m. stayed on the job to help draw blood from the donors and handle telephone inquiries, an administrator noted.

Mrs. Parker was admitted at the hospital Tuesday morning. The need for immediate surgery, however, was not indicated until late that day when emergency operation was scheduled by her physician, it was learned.

CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Jerry Owen Jackson of Granite City, who obtained a divorce from Paula Jean Jackson of Madison on a counter-complaint, was awarded custody of three children during weekends and in the summer months, he advised this week.

Annets to Meet

The Madison Annets Post 294 will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in its new home at 1242 Iowa St., Madison, according to Commander William Papa. Papa said remodeling of the new home has begun. Members were urged to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Donors Still Aid Tree Of Lights Campaign

Holiday food baskets, warm clothing for school-age children and toys for smaller tots were part of the services and gifts provided by the Salvation Army through the annual "Tree of Lights" campaign.

The 1973 fund-raising drive this week topped the $12,000 goal, the minimum amount required to aid Quad-City families in need during the holiday period.

A total of $12,153 in donations had been tabulated this morning at the Salvation Army headquarters, where 550 families received food baskets.

Additionally, 337 local school children were furnished with a winter coat, new shoes, or other essential clothing, depending on the needs of the individual child, through the Salvation Army's "Clothe-A-Child" project.

One Salvation Army worker commented that this year's selection of toys for younger children was "probably the nicest we ever have seen."

Some toys were purchased, others refurbished and repaired by volunteers and still more were contributed through the "Community Christmas Tree," a new program at First Granite City National Bank and the "Dress-A-Doll" contest, sponsored the past several seasons by Granite City Trust & Savings Bank.

Seasonal remembrances were distributed to patients at Scott Air Force Base Hospital and to senior citizens at several area nursing homes.

An outstanding job was accomplished by area organizations which manned the "red kettle" sites. Praise also was offered by Salvation Army leaders to young people who sang Christmas carols throughout the community and donated collections to the annual fund.

More than 1,600 names and applications were cleared by the central listing service provided by the Salvation Army, with 81 families adopted by area groups.

Additional donors of $25 or more to the "Tree of Lights" fund, include:

Women of the Moose Chapter, 247, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cunningham, Lombardi Paints and Interiors, B&J Mobil Service Station, Edward Schmidt Jr., Seibold Bake Shops, John Svezia, Tank Town Carriers, Miss Lucille MacLeod.

Louis Brusatti, Randall Robertson, Winifred Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Morrison, Raymond Willard, W. P. Guth, George Burdell, Robert Fitzgerald, Billy Winter and Group (carolers), Vicki Millin and Friends (carolers).

Onk's Package Liquor, Arthur Bromley, Carl Passhoff, P. L. Frazier, Elvonn Meyer, Venice Ladies Democratic Club, Wilbur Waggoner, Neale Salaried Employees.

Russell Benson (two lights), Madison County Federal Savings & Loan (two lights), Glick's Department Store, Venice Food Center, Granite City Press-Record and Pam and Pat Hillmer and Friends (carolers).

Filing Will Open in Three Municipalities

Filing of nominating petitions by candidates who will seek city offices in Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach in elections to be held April 17 will open Monday.

Offices subject to election will include eight in Madison, seven in Venice, and six in the village of Pontoon Beach.

Filing also will open Tuesday for candidates who plan to seek two Granite City park district commissioner posts. The Granite City park district election also is scheduled April 17.

Nominating petitions in the three municipalities may be filed with the clerk of the city or village through Feb. 12. Candidates in the park district election may file with Frank Rea, secretary of the park board, through Tuesday, Jan. 16.

Municipal elections in Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach will include mayoralty elections in all three communities, although in Pontoon Beach the mayor or will be elected to fill only a two-year unexpired term.

The election of a mayor in Pontoon Beach was held in 1971, but Thomas Staicoff who was elected to the office has since resigned.

Otto Kreher, a member of the board of trustees, was appointed to the board president's post but such offices are subject to the next general election when there is more than a year of a term remaining.

Other terms expiring next year in addition to the board president are those of Town Clerk Mrs. Mary Sturdivant who also is serving by appointment, Treasurer Mrs. Loretta Skinner and Trustees Carl Hackney, Don McNew and Fred Reiser.

Pontoon Beach has a board of six members and the board president, with three of the trustees elected each two years. Voters in the city of Madison may elect a mayor, clerk, treasurer and five ward aldermen.

Terms expiring and offices subject to election April 17 include Mayor Mike Sasyk, City Clerk John Belcoff, Treasurer Mrs. Demos Nicholas and Aldermen Doris Reeves, Ward One; Richard Kiemer, Ward Two; Ray Kozielek, Ward

Three; Christ Costoff, Ward Four, and Booker Walton, Ward Five.

Venice voters will ballot on candidates to fill the offices of Mayor John E. Lee, Treasurer Bernard Anderson, City Clerk William "Mike" Eberhardt, and Aldermen Harry Buente, Ward One; Hank Sevia, Ward Two; John Ervin, Ward Three, and Henry Baucum, Ward Four.

In the Granite City Park District commissioners now serving whose terms will expire next year are Milton Worthen and Clarence Baumeier.

Sue Carbaugh, Scott Cobb Exchange Vows

Arrangements of white and blue flowers and lighted candles decorated the sanctuary of Emmanuel Baptist Church Saturday evening, Dec. 30, for the seven o'clock wedding of Miss Sue Ellen Carbaugh, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carbaugh, 1820 Spring Ave., and Scott E. Cobb, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cobb, 2201 Glen Drive.

The Rev. Arthur J. Short officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Jewel Everett, organist, played the processional and the recessional and accompanied the vocalist, Duane Bridges, as he sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Hurricane lamps festooned with greenery marked the white-carpeted aisle along which the bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage.

White satin over tullea fashioned the bride's gown. It was designed with an Empire waistline and a sheer square yoke bodice, accented by a self ruffle and trim of Venice lace and white velvet ribbon. Tiny covered buttons centered the yoke.

Matching Venice lace and ribbon formed a stand-up collar, cuffed the long, puffed sleeves, edged a deep ruffle at the bottom of the A-line silhouette and highlighted the waistline, which featured a self bow of peau in the back.

Small Venice lace daisy motifs were scattered on the bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. An organza profile, with a velvet bow and seed pearls, secured her three-tier waist-length veil, which was edged in Venice lace.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and vinca leaves, which was backed with a white linen handkerchief edged in white lace and embellished with seed pearls, a gift from her flower girls.

Miss Donna Robertson was maid of honor, serving with Miss Bella Blankenship, Miss Beth Ann Carbaugh, the bride's sister, and Miss Debbie Cobb, sister of the bridegroom.

They were dressed in identical floor-length gowns in two shades of blue organza over tullea. Each gown featured an Empire waistline accented by a band of Venice lace. Repeated lace formed a bolero effect on the bodice and also cuffed the long, puffed sleeves of organza.

Small royal blue velvet bows accented the neckline, cuffs and back waistline.

They wore velvet veils in their hair to secure double veils of illusion.

Each attendant carried a nosegay of blue carnations and baby breath.

Sherri Dusley and Amy Hester, both cousins of the bride, served as flower girls.

They were dressed alike in full-length gowns fashioned of white organza over tullea, designed in the same style as the bridesmaids' gowns.

Royal blue velvet ribbon was run through the Venice lace trim of these gowns, and small bows accented the necklines, sleeves and back waistlines.

They carried baskets filled with rose petals and adorned with lilies of the valley and bows and streamers of blue velvet ribbon.

Ringbearer was James Robinson.

Mr. Cobb chose as best man Tom Worthen, and the corps of groomsmen and ushers consisted of Danny Kreiter, Chuck Cobb, the bridegroom's brother, Steve Ashby, Steve Johnson and Clint Green.

Mrs. Carbaugh chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length gown with a scoop-necked, long-sleeved bodice of royal blue polyester crepe and a printed skirt of royal blue, cerise and cranberry. Her accessories were gold.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Cobb, also wore a floor-length gown. It was made of cranberry double knit, featuring a high neckline and long sleeves. She chose silver accessories and pearls.

Both mothers had corsages of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Fireman's Hall in Pontoon Beach.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Gina Hart. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Sandra Osley and Mrs. Faye Hester, aunts of the bride.

After a brief wedding trip, the newlyweds will live in Granite City.

The former Miss Carbaugh is a senior at Granite City High School. Mr. Cobb, a 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, is employed as assistant manager of the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in St.

Orchestra to Feature Contemporary Music

"Encounters in Music," a special program of contemporary music designed to attract young, new audiences, will be presented by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in Powell Symphony Hall on Saturday evening, Jan. 20, at 8:30 p.m.

Hunt, a doctoral candidate in music at Washington U. Other program highlights include Alan Hovhaness' "And God Created Great Whales," which integrates recordings of live whale sounds with the orchestral parts, and Donald Erb's "The Seventh Trumpet," which uses conventional orchestral instruments in unconventional ways.

The concert concludes with a performance of Stravinsky's "Petroushka," which received high critical acclaim when Slatkin conducted the work at the Mississippi River Festival here in August 1972. In addition to the one low ticket price of $2, other unusual features of "Encounters in Music" include an hour-long program of electronic music broadcast before and after the concert and an after-the-concert party in the Grand Foyer for concertgoers to meet and talk with Conductor Slatkin and orchestra members.

Tickets at $2 for reserved seats are on sale now at Powell Symphony Hall (534-1700) and other symphony box office outlets in the metropolitan area.

New Programs Start at First Assembly

Beginning Sunday, First Assembly of God, 24th Street and Grand Avenue will begin all its morning activities at 10 o'clock. Nursery, pre-school Montessori division, elementary and junior high divisions will be in modern classrooms while the remainder of the church body is in worship.

Snoopy, the cartoon character, will visit each of the church school divisions during the morning, giving coupons for a free hamburger and soft drink at Hollis Drive-In, the Rev. M. A. Groff, pastor explained.

Adult Bible School now will be conducted on Thursday evenings, which has been designated "Family Night" at the church. During the week night school, starting at 7 o'clock, Montessori, Missionettes and a Royal Rangers will be conducting various activities while the adults choose one of six elective courses to attend.

The first quarter electives include the following subjects and teachers: "Church History," John Patrick; "Communicating the Christian Experience," Ron Pennell; "The Christian Home," Mary Ellen Rupp; "Christ, King and Savior," John and Margaret Pithers; and "Intercessors Group," Pastor Groff.

The new schedule is serving as a "pilot project" for other congregations to adapt or use as a model, the minister said.

Women Invited To Leisure Hour

The Leisure Hour group, sponsored by the Granite City Park District, will continue to meet on the first Wednesday of each month at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Franklin and Amos avenues, Mrs. Lucille Pierce, program director, said today.

The informal social period, lasting from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m., is open to all women who reside within the park district boundaries. Cards are played during the "leisure" hours and those attending usually bring with them a sack lunch, Mrs. Pierce explained.

At this week's session Mrs. Penny Quiley was enrolled as a new member and a guest was Mrs. Emma Steinberg. Additional information about the program may be obtained by calling Mrs. Pierce at 876-8204.

WWI Veterans to Host District 4

Veterans of World War I and Auxiliary, Madison Barracks 34, finalized plans for a 4th District meeting, to be held Jan. 21 in Granite City, during a meeting of both groups on Tuesday at the Veterans of Foreign War hall.

Guests from Collinsville and Alton, together with 45 local members, attended a 12:30 pot-luck dinner, followed by business meetings conducted by Commander Raymond Scott and Mrs. Clara Knipping, auxiliary president.

Hospital chairman, Mrs. Clara Conaway, reported on a party given in December for Veterans at the Alton State Hospital.

20-Year-Olds Still Subject to Induction

Many men born in 1953 may never be drafted. Selective Service officials said today. This is because several thousand born before that year and missed in last year's draft remain subject to induction this year.

More than 12,000 who faced the draft last year have lottery numbers 1 through 95, the numbers called up in 1972, but missed being drafted due to illnesses or other legitimate reasons. They can be inducted now only in the first three months of 1973.

The Defense Department has said there will be no January or February calls, and has placed a ceiling of 10,000 on the number to be inducted before June 30, when the draft expires. It has not been announced whether there will be a March induction call.

Vote Is Scheduled on State Officials' Pay

A vote is scheduled today on pay raises for judges and state officials. When the Illinois General Assembly reported for a special session Tuesday, a nine-billion package was moved to the Senate amendment stage without going to a committee.

The proposal includes $32 daily living expenses for legislators when the Assembly is in session.

Increasing Number of Women With Families Returning to University

Helen Gruber had attended a university for one year in Massachusetts before she married. Five children later, the family had moved to Southern Illinois, all the children were attending school and Mrs. Gruber wanted to resume her university education.

So, like an increasing number of older women, Mrs. Gruber returned to school, choosing Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Though no accurate national statistics are kept, it is estimated that 500,000 women over 30 are enrolled in college this year, about twice the number enrolled just 10 years ago. At SIUE, there were about 800 women over 30 enrolled as of September 1972.

"SIUE being close by is important for me," said Mrs. Gruber, who lives in the rural Edwardsville area. "My oldest child is 17 and my youngest is 10, and all of them are involved in school activities in the Collinsville district, which means I've got to run a chauffeuring service while I'm going to school."

Mrs. Gruber, who began attending the university part-time in 1968, earned a bachelor's degree in biology last June and now is working for a master's degree in biology. When she completes her advanced degree, she hopes to find a job as a researcher.

Though not all older students finish their degrees as Mrs. Gruber did, a large number of them do.

D. W. Wilton of the SIUE office of admissions and records said older women picking up their education after a long layoff or beginning university work for the first time generally do very well.

"The common denominator at the beginning is that they're all scared to death about competing with the younger kids," said Wilton, who acts as an unofficial advisor to older students.

Gene Magac, also of the admissions and records office, said the apprehension of many older women is not limited to competing with younger students.

"Some are scared about the ACT test they must take for admission, and some are scared about the subject matter in the required General Studies courses," Magac said. "But we do what we can to overcome these fears; it's certain that the number of older women enrolled here is increasing steadily."

Mrs. Gruber's experience backs up what SIUE officials have observed.

"The thought of competing with young people who haven't been out of school for 10 or 20 years was awfully scary," she said. "It takes some courage to go back."

"I put everything into my studies at first, almost to the exclusion of everything else, because I was afraid of failing. But after awhile I learned to pace myself and handle more than one thing at a time."

The motivations for returning to school vary with different persons, Magac said.

"Many of the older women are divorced and trying to start a new life; their children are in school or have left the home altogether and they're looking for something to do with the time they never had before," Magac said.

A recent survey of college counselors and older students shows that the reasons for the attendance are varied.

Affluence has meant that more women have the funds to go to college. Labor-saving devices and packaged meals that can be prepared quickly and easily also have had an effect.

Perhaps the most significant factor, however, is a change in philosophy about the role of American women.

Not long ago, a woman who returned to college or started a career after 30 probably was viewed as unusual. And if she had children she might have been accused of neglecting them. That seems to be changing.

"I have a daughter who will be a college freshman next year, probably at SIUE," Mrs. Gruber said. "I want to expand my mind as my children expand theirs. Going back to school allows a person to become flexible in her thinking."

"You get lots of ideas at home every day that might not hold up at all. Sitting next to a wild-haired hippie in class and discovering he's really a nice guy is bound to change your idea of wild-haired hippies."

Mrs. Gruber said returning to school full-time would have been impossible without a family "sympathetic to what I'm doing. My husband Joe (an administrator at Alton State Hospital) and the kids have helped cook, clean the house and do other things, too."

Mrs. Gruber said she thinks older women will continue to return to school.

"Everyone wants to contribute to society," she said, "and the older you get, the more you tend to know what you want to do."

"Most of the older students I've seen are goal-oriented and highly motivated. They get into the work very intensely."

Hundreds Hear 70 Bible Readers

Hundreds of Quad-City residents attended at various times the 14-hour Bible reading marathon held in front of Hudson Jewelry Store in Bellemore Village Shopping Center on New Year's Eve. The project was planned by the Rev. M. A. Groff, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, with the cooperation of several churches in the area.

The unusual program was sponsored in conjunction with "Key 70," a combined effort of over 130 denominations in the country to "Call Our Continent to Christ." The purpose of the marathon was to call public attention to the importance of reading God's word during the New Year, Rev. Groff said.

Over 70 people representing area churches participated in reading the new testament texts.

Beginning the marathon at midnight was 18-year-old Dan Bowers, 2564 Cleveland Blvd., who read the first five chapters of Matthew.

Bowers is a member of Central Baptist Church and was home for the holidays from Missouri Baptist College in Creve Coeur, where he is a freshman student.

During the marathon, six people from each of the cooperating churches read for 10 minutes each. Pastors joined with parishioners as young and old alike read to passers-by.

The Rev. Groff reported.

Jerry Wilson, 2363 Benton St., a member of the First United Pentecostal Church, ended the marathon with a reading at 2 p.m. on New Year's day.

'Child-Resistant' Containers for Aspirin

Checks to see how adults fare with the "child-resistant" container. It will get a final stamp of approval if 95 percent of the adults are able to open it.

O'Reilly pointed out that one package size of each product may be made with the conventional lid to accommodate adults, such as arthritis, whose fingers dexterity is limited. However, there is no regulation requiring every store to carry the conventional container in its stock, the health specialist explained.

The children then receive a demonstration on opening the container, and they are given another chance to try. If 80 percent are still unable to open the container, it passes the test for child-resistance.

However, the test doesn't end there, O'Reilly said. The FDA will get a final stamp of approval if 95 percent of the adults are able to open it.

Card Scenes Not Just Holiday Hobby for Mrs. Holly Hobbie

Holly grew up in Watertown, Conn., where creatures and man lived together in harmony. Her father worked in a clock factory, and she married a high school chum and she began to draw darling pictures.

Holly Hobbie is not as precious as this little story, although the story is true.

Her drawings appear on "Holly Hobbie" greeting cards, and are featured in department and gift stores in this metro, seitan area, Los Angeles, Chicago and elsewhere around the U. S.

This holiday season, a collection of her original drawings has been displayed in the Pan-American Building in New York City.

She is the wife of Douglas Hobbie, an instructor in the English department of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Mrs. Hobbie knows how nearly her life approaches preciousness and avoids it with self-effacing humor and grace.

Her eldest daughter is named Brett. "Rebecca Brett Hobbie" was the name she added when giving the name, as if it had only then occurred to her how that might sound too cute.

Brett is seven years old. Holly has two other children: Jocelyn, four, and Nathaniel, 18 months.

Devoes of her work would recognize the children. Brett has red hair, worn in long pigtails. Jocelyn is short and also has red hair. Nathaniel is shorter, still and blond.

In her drawings, the children are depicted in old-fashioned clothes, suggesting an idyllic and rural yesterday.

Mrs. Hobbie does not create the verses her drawings carry in homes on cards, postcards, gift wrapping, candles, plates and bric-a-brac.

"The verses usually turn me off. It's really so sentimental and I really, for the most part, don't like it," she said.

Presumably the persons who buy her cards do like it. Many of them are so impressed by her designs that they have written to her.

"The company used to forward mail addressed to Holly Hobbie, and it really started coming in baskets. People wanted to hear from me—people were sending me gifts," she said.

Before she was buried beneath the rising tide—"I can't write and thank everyone for being so kind"—the company decided to send a form letter to her correspondents. She no longer receives the mail.

She says that, to her children, what she does is "nothing special. One day, we were in a dry goods store and I was looking through one of those big books of patterns they have, and Brett said: 'Mommy, do you think you could draw as good as this? I couldn't believe it: those sketchy little stick figures.'"

She started drawing for the American Greeting Card Co. six years ago. She and her husband had just become parents, he was still in college and "we were very, very poor," she said.

A friend suggested that she send some drawings to a greeting card company. American immediately started buying her work, and a year later put her under contract.

She does not consider what she does now to be art. "I wouldn't consider myself an artist," she said, "I'd be too embarrassed."

Of course, she said, "what I do is serious—I mean this is no fly-by-night thing—but it is no it's commercial and commercial isn't art."

From now on aspirins will be packaged in "child-resistant" containers that meet Food and Drug Administration (FDA) requirements.

Larry O'Reilly, University of Illinois Extension health specialist, reported that the new ruling, which went into effect last fall, is part of the Poison Prevention Packaging Act.

The measure is designed to reduce the number of accidental poisonings involving children. The National Clearing House for Poison Control Centers reports that aspirin is the most frequent offender, causing as many accidental poisonings as all other medications combined.

During 1971 in Illinois, more than 1,800 children under 13 years of age were reported victims of accidental aspirin poisonings.

O'Reilly explained that to be classified "child-resistant," containers must pass certain tests. For example, in a test group of children, 85 percent must not be able to open the container.

The children then receive a demonstration on opening the container, and they are given another chance to try. If 80 percent are still unable to open the container, it passes the test for child-resistance.

However, the test doesn't end there, O'Reilly said. The FDA will get a final stamp of approval if 95 percent of the adults are able to open it.

Science May Eliminate Death, Rotarians Told

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

"Within about 30 years, scientific technology will literally manufacture people, and by the year 2,000 will have eliminated death, but when you eliminate death you will need also to eliminate birth," Dr. Thomas Layloff, professor of Chemistry at St. Louis University, told the Madison Rotary Club at its Wednesday noon meeting in the Madison Recreation Center.

Dr. Layloff traced the beginnings of scientific research from the study of Alchemy, a medieval chemical science and speculative philosophy aiming to achieve transmutation of base metals into gold; discover a universal cure for disease; and discover a means of indefinitely prolonging life.

Dr. Layloff said that as in the days of the alchemist, the scientific field is still divided into two distinct groups. One labeled as "purists" studied science to achieve a greater understanding of everything so that they themselves may become more "God" like and be transformed into perfect beings.

The other camp, known as the applicationists, generally take the discoveries made by the "purists" and apply them for personal or society's gain, he said.

Dr. Layloff noted the vast accomplishments science has made, particularly in health, food, and communications in the past 50 years.

He said billions of dollars are spent today on the preservation of health. Science by the year 2,000, through gene control, virtually will have eliminated death.

The greatest advances through the years in the health area have been in sewage and water control systems, according to the St. Louis University professor.

"In the 18th and 19th centuries, everyone thought we would run out of food. Now we have controls to keep us from producing too much. In the year 2,000, everyone will be on controlled diets of food supplements largely made out of soybeans. In the year 2,000, we will be going into clinics and will be prescribed specific diets tailored-made for the individual."

Dr. Layloff noted the advances in this lifetime in the field of communications such as television and satellites. When asked by Madison Rotarian Jerry Maeras what was the single most significant achievement of science in the last 40 years affecting mankind, Dr. Layloff replied, "The development of the transistors and we haven't begun to feel the full effects of transistors."

He said that scientific advancements have allowed this country to be one of the most humane societies ever to exist. Without the technical advances we could not afford to go out of our way to help the handicapped, have social security and the numerous welfare programs in existence," he said.

Dr. Layloff explained that from a "purist" point of view we should continue to visit the stars and planets, but the applicationist sees no value in further space exploration as it would take 30 years to get to the nearest star and two years to send a message in one direction.

"Science will continue to make advances but it will be directed at improving our society not in space explorations, although the purist in his need for understanding everything will want to explore further into space," the speaker continued.

"No one wants to wait two years for a message and then two more years for a reply. If we did launch an expedition to a distant star in the 30 years it would take to get there, and two years to get a message back to us, most of us would have forgotten all about the expedition leaving in the first place."

When asked about belief in God, the scientist replied, "I very definitely believe in God. Things are too well organized in the Universe, in the structure of the atoms for not to be a God. I think it would be very hard for a true scientist not to believe in God."

After several questions by the Rotarians, Dr. Layloff concluded his talk with a quote from the Bible: "In much wisdom is much grief, and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow."

Dr. Layloff is a graduate of the Madison School system and now lives in Granite City.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Walter F. Strange. The club celebrated the birthday of Rotarian Mike Sanyk with the singing of the traditional song.

4-Month Delay in State Ban on Furs from Endangered Species

Copley News Service

Springfield—Illinois residents can wear their tigerskins and alligator shoes in good health and peace of mind for another five months, thanks to an executive order delaying the enforcement of an endangered species act in the state.

On Dec. 29, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie signed the executive order which delays until April 30 implementation of the bill.

This will afford time to comply with the law, which forbids anyone to possess, sell, give away or otherwise dispose of any animal or parts of it, if it is classified as an endangered species.

Most of the animals so classified are not native to Illinois.

But their pelts, feathers, hides and tusks are often sold in the state as wearing apparel or novelties.

The live animals also will be included among forbidden items, except to those with permits allowing possession for zoological, educational or scientific purposes.

The governor signed the order at the request of Henry Barkhausen, director of the Department of Conservation, which will have responsibility for enforcing the act.

In the order, the governor noted that "clear and thoughtful rules" must be provided, in order to protect innocent citizens and merchants.

He noted as well that, though the act calls for appointment of an Endangered Species Protection Board to work with the director and formulate policies, no appropriations were made to allow the department to carry out its responsibilities.

Conservation spokesmen indicated they will initially seek to fund the program with $150,000, which will probably have to be deducted from other funds in a "rob Peter to pay Paul" operation.

It is feared that this figure may actually be too low, since five or six staff members will probably have to be added to carry out such full-time duties as checking shipments at points of entry like the Chicago waterfront or O'Hare Field, as well as checking pet shops, dealers, furriers and the like.

But by making such items unsalable in the state, the market will be reduced and killing of such species thereby will be limited or halted.

Among endangered species spelled out are leopards, including the snow and clouded leopards; tigers; cheetahs, alligators, crocodiles and all members of their families; vicuna, red and gray wolves, polar bears, mountain lions, jaguars, ocelots, margay, desert kit foxes and kit foxes, Pacific Ridley turtles and the green turtle.

Animals designated "endangered" in the future by the U. S. Secretary of the Interior would automatically be added to the Illinois list, which could also be expanded by a majority vote of the Protection Board after public hearings.

The nine-member board would serve without pay except for expenses and would include three persons from the fur industry—also including one from labor and six who are recognized as naturalists, with appointments to be made by the governor.

Under the act, anyone already possessing prohibited items could obtain, free, a permit from the department—good for as long as the item is in existence, showing they possessed it before the act became effective.

Those possessing such species for zoological, educational or scientific purposes would also have to obtain a permit, and could be required from time to time — though no more than once a year — to list each such item they possessed.

Permits could be revoked for failure to file such lists, for knowingly filing a false report, or using the item for other than the exempted purpose.

Violations would carry fines between $100 and $1,000, up to a year in prison, or both. Fines collected would go to the state's fish and game fund.

Interim Problem of Operating Levee Districts Stems Not From the New Law But From Suit Trying to Circumvent It

The suit and counter-suit filed regarding the district's levee and sanitary district services are not "friendly" actions. But they could have the desirable effect of adding court sanction to the new law that received approval of the legislative and executive branches of the Illinois state government last month.

As admitted in the Dec. 28 suit by those trying to perpetuate the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, the Dec. 22 law dividing it has its stated goal: "more effective administrative and fiscal control." This is an objective all should endorse but, unfortunately, some do not.

It is related in the law and suit that sanitary districts having $100 million or more assessment and serving the Mississippi River area are divided along the county line.

A Mississippi River outlet structure or pumping station is made the responsibility of the district with the largest drainage area served by the facility; the other district is to reimburse a proportionate share of the costs quarterly. However, the pumping station involved, North, is to be operated by the state during a period of up to ten years.

Real property is allocated between the two successor districts, Madison and St. Clair, based on the fact that the property is situated. The new districts "may provide by agreement for the operation, maintenance, rehabilitation, repair, restoration or replacement of any drainage, levee, sanitary or other structures and facilities situated in and serving more than one county."

Present and future board vacancies are to be filled by the governor from a list submitted by the state legislators serving a majority of the particular district, with the two Madison and three St. Clair board members who were elected in November continuing in office.

The suit contends the new law is "vague and uncertain" and that the suit itself is vague in attempting to document such a charge.

While it is claimed in the Dec. 28

Fire Safety in Super-Tall Buildings Needs Urgent Look

The deaths of four persons who leaped from the upper levels of a burning 16-story building in New Orleans—and a similar tragedy a day later in Atlanta—show that the modern high-rise can be a firetrap.

The typical tall building is designed around a central shaft containing heat-vulnerable elevators and enclosing air-conditioning ducts that can serve as flues in the event of a fire. The design

To the Editor:

In response to the Dec. 28 letter, "Believes Leaders 'Not at Any Price,'" I have my doubts about some of our people who want to have "peace at any price."

Have you ever thought why many people from other countries are so eager to come live in the United States? Think about it.

Illinois State Parks Beautiful -- And Open to Public -- in Winter

Illinois state parks do not close in the winter. Granted, they are not as busy as they are in the summer, but they are just as beautiful, and perhaps more so.

Winter recreation has become increasingly important in the past few years, as more and more people begin to have more leisure time.

And no matter where you live in Illinois, you're not far away from one of Illinois' more than 100 state parks and conservation areas.

A winter visit to a park can reward a visitor with many exciting hours of pleasure, and there are many ways you can pursue an outdoor sport if you happen to be a polar bear fan.

Many of the parks and conservation areas offer hunting. Grab your shotgun; there's still plenty of time before the season ends to enjoy some rabbit, quail, pheasant and partridge shooting.

Many of the areas available to hunting enthusiasts require sportsmen to check in and/or out, so be sure before you go. If hunting isn't your bag, but fishing is, many of the parks offer some fine ice fishing. Ice fishermen are of a select breed and you'll find most of them a friendly bunch, not to mention the reward of a skillet of pan-fish when you return home.

If you like fishing but only on open water, don't let winter keep you at home. Illinois has two state-managed areas, Baldwin Lake and Sangre de Cristo Lake, that provide open water fishing year-round.

However, Baldwin Lake is closed on Mondays and not open to anglers during the waterfowl season, so be sure to check your calendar before you hook up the boat.

Klondike derbies, or winter camping, have become a major winter activity in the last couple of years. These are events most often of Boy Scout troops, but with the advent of tent heaters there has been a rise in popularity with older campers as well.

Even if you don't want to spend a winter night in a park, you might like to try a winter picnic. Many of the parks offer shelter facilities which have picnic tables.

Nature enthusiasts will find many enjoyable hours of hiking or just sitting in the great outdoors. A bird watching or animal watching to spend a winter day. Just a pleasant walk through new-fallen snow also can be a rewarding pastime.

Ice formations on rocks and trees provide a photographer with thousands of cooperating models.

Interpreters at seven of the parks conduct nature walks daily. If you prefer to go with a group, these parks include Mississippi Palisades, Rock Cut, Starved Rock, Illinois Beach, Kickapoo, Pere Marquette and Giant City.

All of these parks, except Kickapoo, are equipped with visitor centers which explain the ecology of the park and can serve as warming facilities.

At Illinois Beach and Starved Rock, slide shows are conducted daily in the park lodges, showing the four seasons of the park and the park's natural resources.

If you are inclined to more vigorous activities, there is plenty of sport at your parks.

For the snowmobiler there are more than 115 miles of trails in a dozen parks and conservation areas: Illinois Beach, Chain O'Lakes, Rock Cut, Silver Springs, Hennepin Canal, Johnson Sauk Trail, Illini, Kankakee River, McLean County, Kickapoo, Lake Le-Aqua-Na and Mississippi Palisades.

Rules on use of snowmobiles are posted at each of the areas.

Cross-country skiing has become popular in Illinois parks. A hiring sport, it seems to have caught on in popularity after the last winter Olympic.

Tobogganing, sledding, skating and sail-skiing are just a few of the other winter activities which can be enjoyed at the parks.

"Take the opportunity to visit one of your parks this winter, they are open for your enjoyment year-round," an Illinois Conservation Department spokesman emphasizes.

Awkward Transition Period At Illinois State Capitol

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield—in the final days of a long and turbulent political year, the Statehouse at last was quiet.

A mood of isolation had settled over the Capitol and will not fully end until a new governor is inaugurated on Jan. 8. Never in recent years have those who move the wheels of state government felt so out of things.

It is fitting that the "lame duck" party to another Republican administration should coincide with the holiday season. At least year-end festivities provide a suitable reason for doing little of anything. A transition of governor power from one party to another always brings a period of time-marking to Springfield. But this year the change has left the Capitol more isolated than at any time within memory.

Virtually nothing is happening in Springfield as Democrat Daniel Walker prepares to succeed Republican Richard B. Ogilvie. The lone exception was the post-holiday effort this week to set pay levels for judges and state officials.

What action there is, is taking place in Chicago. Downstairs, Democrats as well as Republicans, feel out of it.

Walker, as he did in his primary and general election campaigns, continues to run a one-man show.

He appears to be consulting with few beyond himself. And if he has any important liaison people working in Springfield, there are few in the Statehouse who know about them.

There is increasing speculation that Walker as Governor will "play it by ear"—and to most students of state government operations this spells trouble for the immediate future.

Because of the bitterness of the campaign there has been a recognition in state political circles that the so-called transition period would see little real cooperation between Walker and Ogilvie.

It was thought there might be at least some gestures for the sake of appearances. But not so.

There also were some who thought that Walker, once elected, might make more use of the recognized state government expertise of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, the man he defeated in the Democratic primary campaign.

But Walker remains as cool to Simon now as he did in the campaign.

And Simon, still known to be bitter about what he considered an unfair primary campaign tactics by Walker, has been far from ready to volunteer to help smooth the Springfield road for him.

However, in spite of the frustration and impatience, the Christmas-New Year's holiday calm was welcomed at the Statehouse. It is probably the last calm to be enjoyed for a long, long time to come.

Student Affairs Director Joins SIU Dental School

Students at Southern Illinois University's School of Dental Medicine who need advice on financial aid, professional organizations or personal matters now may go to a director of student affairs on the Alton campus.

Dr. Richard Brand, assistant dean for student affairs at the school in St. Louis, has joined SIU's faculty. He will be at SIU part-time while he completes teaching and administrative duties at Washington University. He will be full-time at SIU by July 1.

Every student in the first class at the SIU dental school, which opened in September, has a personal faculty advisor. But Brand will be responsible for many student activities that had not been centralized previously.

"Now there will be one specific office students can come to," Brand said. "At least I can tell them who they should see even if I can't answer their questions myself."

Brand said he will also help dental students as they enter SIU.

"As students are accepted, they'll need to find housing around Alton and jobs for their wives or husbands," Brand said. "I'll do everything I can to help them."

Brand also will teach at the dental school, in the department of pathology. A former practicing dentist who earned his D.D.S. from the University of Pittsburgh dental school in 1958, Brand said he is excited about instructing in a clinical situation as well as in the classroom.

Lawn & Garden

By WAYNE B. SIEBERT
Area Extension Adviser,
Ornamental Horticulture
St. Clair and Madison Counties

If you want the best performance from your Christmas tree, buy it early and keep it watered.

Christmas trees in the sales lot gradually become so dry and crispy they drop their needles and become a fire hazard. If you purchase a tree early you can keep it green and fresh by watering it. Immediately recut the stump to remove 1/2-inch of the wood. Stand the tree in a pail or tub of water to absorb water. Keep the pail filled. When possible, wet down the tree with a garden hose.

When you move your tree indoors use a tree stand that provides for a water supply to the tree. You can make a homemade stand out of a wire mesh basket or tub filled with water. Keep the tree fresh by adding water twice a week. Good color and firm needles are the result of the watered tree. It will add extra cheer to your holiday season.

An Evergreen Tree
Special problems in landscaping develop when you plant an evergreen tree.

Evergreen trees have the size and permanence to create a permanent beauty and winter color. But their eventual size makes them a risk as a landscape plant.

Front-yard plantings immediately create a conflict of interest between the tree and the house. As the tree grows the house is hidden from view and dominated by the size of the tree. A good test of this front yard theory during the holidays is outdoor lighting.

When you see a tree nicely lighted, ask this question: Is the tree, or the home, the center of the holiday festivities? Back yard plantings of evergreen trees as a border or near a fence is ideal. Concealing pools, nearby buildings or unpleasant views is one of the uses of these handsome giants. Side-yard choices are acceptable if adequate space exists. When planted close to a house, the size of the house and the tree can occur.

Your roses require winter mulching to protect the crowns from a severe freeze.

Fall flowering roses were in full growth until the recent cold weather frosted the leaves and killed flowers. You should play it safe by mulching them to protect the crowns from fluctuating temperatures and cold winter blasts.

Loose soil is commonly used to mulch roses but several wood chips, or shredded leaves are equally effective. Add enough mulch to cover the crown and a few inches of the base of the stems. When using shredded or natural leaves, be generous! Thoroughly wet the leaves to keep them from scattering.

Fall pruning will reduce the size of the winter plants but not timing next year's growth or flowering. Cut back tea and floribunda roses to 15-18 inch stubs. Next spring use the mulch for weed control between the plants when new buds are 1 inch long. Further prune the stubs by removing dead wood, crossing limbs and weak branches.

Hardy chrysanthemums will survive better if you pound off

$95,000 Grant To Aid Veterans With Education

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will upgrade their grant from the U. S. Office of Education under a $95,000 grant from the U. S. Office of Education.

About 100 veterans from the area are expected to enter the program in its first year, according to Jim Stein, SIU faculty member and program director. Priority will be given to unemployed veterans who do not have a high school diploma. Second priority will be given to unemployed or underemployed veterans who have a high school diploma and want to prepare for higher education.

"There is a large population of veterans in this area who have been unemployed or underemployed," Stein said. "For those who have a high school diploma, we hope to prepare them to pass the General Education Development (GED) test, which is the equivalent of a high school diploma."

Veterans entering the program will receive a $1,000 stipend to help with living expenses. They will be on a vocational campus, they'll get an idea of the atmosphere here that could help them decide whether they want to enter college.

Assistant director of the program is Russ Ruebner of Highland, a Vietnam-era veteran who recently completed a course in counseling at SIUE, and Stan Riley of East St. Louis, Vietnam-era veteran from the university's degree program in business services.

In addition to the full-time staff, program personnel include SIUE undergraduates working as tutors and recruiters, and SIUE faculty members from various departments.

Stein said the program will have links to other programs for veterans on the campus and with area agencies serving veterans.

With the New Year—Some Good And Some Bad News for Taxpayers

With the start of the new year of 1973, Uncle Sam has some good news and some bad news for most citizens.

For nearly everyone who works, January brings a big boost in Social Security taxes—much as $163 for 1973, from $468 at present to $531. Fastest growing Social Security tax and second in size only to the income tax, the Social Security tax is paid by 96 million people. The new rate is 11.7% of wages—half by the employee and half by his employer.

The rate now applies to the first $1,600 of the year's earnings and that base will grow to $12,000 a year from now.

But there will be bigger changes in withholding rules; the rate was cut, but not the withholding.

How promptly the refunds will arrive in 1973 will depend on when one files his 1972 return and whether it contains errors that take time to correct.

Good Offsets Bad for Steel Industry in '72

By JOHN P. ROCHE
President
American Iron and Steel Institute

For the domestic steel industry, 1972 was a year in which— in the vernacular of the day— there was some good news and some bad news.

Happily, the good outweighed the bad. Nineteen seventy two was clearly a better year for the industry than 1971.

To begin with, mill product shipments—a basic indicator of industry performance—went up from 87 million tons in 1971 to over 91 million tons this past year.

High up among the good news was conclusion of a new voluntary steel imports arrangement under which steel producers in the European Economic Community, the United Kingdom and Japan agreed to limit their shipments to the United States for the years 1972 through 1974.

The current arrangement, as expressed in the foreign producers' letters of intent, is superior in several ways to the three-year voluntary arrangement that expired at the end of 1971.

The new program's allowable import growth rate is more in line with the actual growth in U.S. demand for steel than was the higher growth rate allowed under the old limitations.

The new program also specifically recognizes the severe disruption which occurred in specialty steel and certain geographic markets under the old program.

In large part, these improvements stem from strong U.S. government expressions of concern over actions by foreign steel producers that might seriously undermine the well-being of the nation's vital basic steel complex and the hundreds of thousands of persons it employs.

That is gratifying recognition at the highest leadership levels that steel imports are a national concern. This recognition transcends party lines.

The current voluntary arrangement was negotiated by a Republican Administration; the previous one by a Democratic Administration. Leaders of Congress from both parties have expressed support for the restraint program.

Bad news at this point in time is that—although program participants have held their overall tonnage shipments to the U.S. within pledged limits—there have occurred notable variations from the historic product mix and geographic distribution patterns.

There appear to be serious excesses in imports of specific products, notably tinplate and stainless and tool steels, and in shipments to the Pacific Coast.

Moreover, the present restraints cover only two blocks of foreign steel producers.

Imports from non-participating areas rose approximately 15% during 1972, so it is hoped the U.S. government will energetically pursue restraint agreements with significant foreign producers not involved in the present program.

It must be noted, however, that the constitutional right of the executive branch—the federal government—to negotiate voluntary imports arrangements presently is being tested in the courts.

In the good news category, was the continuing technological progress of the industry.

During 1972, domestic steel-makers expanded their use of the basic oxygen process, continuous casting and other advanced processes. Basic oxygen production is now approaching 60% of the nation's total steel output.

This country has about a quarter of the world's total of installed basic oxygen steel-making capacity.

There also was some good news and some bad news for the steel industry in developments identified with the environment.

The industry is proud of its environment in a number of accomplishments. Measurable progress is evident everywhere in the industry.

The steel industry is spending nearly a million dollars a year for a cleaner environment. A Conference Board study shows the steel industry allocating a higher percentage of its capital expenditures to pollution control than any other industry. But the steel industry is concerned about its ability to go on meeting the soaring costs of the changing—and often conflicting —standards, and standards that are sometimes unnecessary restrictive.

Harrisburg, Pa. Col. Guy E. Jester (fourth from left), district engineer, U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, presented the certificates to Mrs. Petras and fellow workers who participated in the endeavor. Mrs. Petras is employed in the Contract Branch, Supply Division of the St. Louis District Corps of Engineers.

AIISI estimates the industry would have to spend a minimum of $2.5 billion for new control facilities in the period 1972-1976 to meet a rigid application of current federal standards.

This environmental outlay, plus more than $400 million in annual operating maintenance costs, would be more than the industry earned from 1967 through 1971.

It is important that economic considerations weigh heavily in environmental decisions by the government for it would be unfortunate if we went about attaining an improved environment in such a way that we damaged our economy and made impossible the achievement of other desirable goals.

In 1972, the steel industry continued to promote resource recovery through recycling.

Among the more promising developments in this regard is the growing use of magnetic separation by cities to recover steel cans from solid waste.

By the end of the year, 27 communities around the country were operating magnetic separation facilities.

It is estimated that more than five billion cans a year will be reclaimed by this method by 1975. This will serve the dual purpose of attacking the litter problem and salvaging precious raw materials which can be recycled into useful new products.

During the past year it became evident to people in government as well as to people in industry that OSHA standards tend to be too arbitrary.

Businesses can be cited for conditions that are not unsafe or unhealthy but simply happen to be contrary to the words of the standards.

What is needed—and appears in the offing—are realistic interpretations of standards and approval of variances. After all the purpose of the act is to protect employee safety and health and not just to impose penalties.

The overriding good news is that steel industry leaders expect 1973 to be a better year for industry than 1972.

Their expectations are based on forecasts that the heavy construction and machinery markets will expand substantially and the automotive market will remain strong.

Combined, these markets should account for about three quarters of the steel consumption in the U.S. in 1973.

All in all, the steel industry's employees and their families can look forward to the new year with optimism.

Retailers Expect 1973 to Be 'Good Year'

Retailers around the state generally predict that 1973 will be a good year for business.

"The '73 Forecast published in the Illinois Retail Merchants Association's January member bulletin is filled with optimism," Hugh E. Muncy, IRMA president, said this week.

"However," he continued, "this optimism is tempered with realism. Retailers are aware it will take greater effort to turn a profit in the coming year."

The forecast is the result of information provided by a variety of merchandise line operators located in different regions.

Robert Cherry, Cherry's Sporting Goods, Geneseo, forecasts:

"The retailing picture for 1973 is good for the efficient, aggressive retailer—the one who is willing to work, be competitive and provide what the customer is looking for. Marginal retailers will suffer more than they ever have."

Mrs. Blanche Mrazek, Westchester Jewelers, Westchester, said, "People are releasing savings, not only to buy staples, but also luxury and big ticket items. This is a trend that is encouraging."

Richard R. Anderson, Paul Anderson, Inc., Bloomington (women's wear), has this outlook on next year:

"We must be aware that Jan. 1 there is an increase in Social Security, an instant reduction in take-home pay for everyone. This will make January's volume fall behind '72. However, I do look for good business in '73."

A. M. Scheiderer, Ben Franklin Store, Pekin (variety), predicted, "Pekin total sales should be up 30%, based on growing consumer demand and high level of accumulated savings plus new outlets."

"Profits may not rise with increased sales due to government pressure and higher minimum wages."

A Winnetka merchant, Abe Feil, The Feil Company (men's wear), sees it this way:

"The new Administration is going to do things that will make it easier for us to do business. Prices will be a little higher, and people will be spending more. Business should be up, perhaps 6% to 8%."

"We're looking to a continued increase in 1973. There is a certain amount of stability in the economy with the election over," said Joseph Hausmann, Feltner's, Belleville (department store).

Richard Niemann, Food Centers, Quincy, feels that 1973 will be a highly competitive year. "The best operator will do business and make money; the next best operator will do business but won't make money."

Niemann also looks for increased activity by consumer advocates in the year ahead.

"We will just about hold our own ground in the drug business in 1973," said Mrs. Joseph Gungler, Gungler's Pharmacy, Gurnee. "I don't see anything fantastic for the year ahead."

On the other hand, Victor Moretini, manager of Reif's HomeFurnishers, Springfield, believes, "There is no reason why 1973 shouldn't be a peak year in the furniture business."

And Martin Lewis, Lewis Bros., Joliet (shoes), predicts, "Shoemen face the problem of being priced-up and perhaps out of the price niche they have carved for themselves. Despite this, it will be a good shoe year."

"This optimistic outlook by retailers is consistent with the prediction of economists that capital spending will be up 11% in 1973, the greatest increase since 1966," Muncy reported.

The Illinois Retail Merchants Association is the only statewide organization exclusively serving all phases of retailing.

Revenue Service to Expand Assistance to Taxpayers

During the 1973 income tax filing period through April 16, the Internal Revenue Service, Springfield District, will expand its assistance program by 50% to help more taxpayers with their federal income tax returns, according to Leon C. Green, district director. This is in line with the IRS' slogan—"We want to help," he said.

Green said, "We realize this is a big undertaking but we think it is needed to serve the American taxpayer better. All of our offices will provide some extended hour service on designated evenings and Saturdays for taxpayers who find it difficult to call or visit an IRS office during normal working hours."

Taxpayers will be advised of the dates and hours of free assistance at IRS offices through their local news media—radio and television stations and newspapers.

Taxpayers will be receiving their federal tax forms package within the next two or three weeks. Green stressed the importance of the tax package for it contains forms and instructions, a personalized mailing label and, for the first time, a handy order blank for requisitioning additional tax forms no helpful publications.

Green explained that while IRS will answer questions and still promote self-help on the part of taxpayers, trained IRS assistants expect to help some taxpayers prepare their returns. He cautioned that returns will not be prepared for partnerships or corporations, however, or for individuals, whose business or financial transactions required extensive accounting or legal analysis. Taxpayers with that kind of need will be advised to seek other qualified help.

Once again the short Form 1040A will be available making tax filing easier for some taxpayers. The form is designed for taxpayers whose income is made up of only salary, wages and tips, and no more than $200 in dividends or $200 in interest.

Since some taxpayers receiving the Form 1040A might benefit more by itemizing their deductions or claiming certain credits, IRS assistants will alert them to the fact that they should consider filing on Form 1040. IRS assistants also will advise taxpayers of the possible advantages of filing Form 1040.

"The new Administration is going to do things that will make it easier for us to do business. Prices will be a little higher, and people will be spending more. Business should be up, perhaps 6% to 8%."

"We're looking to a continued increase in 1973. There is a certain amount of stability in the economy with the election over," said Joseph Hausmann, Feltner's, Belleville (department store).

Richard Niemann, Food Centers, Quincy, feels that 1973 will be a highly competitive year. "The best operator will do business and make money; the next best operator will do business but won't make money."

Niemann also looks for increased activity by consumer advocates in the year ahead.

"We will just about hold our own ground in the drug business in 1973," said Mrs. Joseph Gungler, Gungler's Pharmacy, Gurnee. "I don't see anything fantastic for the year ahead."

"This optimistic outlook by retailers is consistent with the prediction of economists that capital spending will be up 11% in 1973, the greatest increase since 1966," Muncy reported.

The Illinois Retail Merchants Association is the only statewide organization exclusively serving all phases of retailing.

Glaucoma Tests To Be Given in Venice Jan. 22

Milton M. Morris, president of the Venice Lions Club, announced today that a screening to discover unsuspected cases of glaucoma will take place in Venice on Jan. 22 from 9 a.m. to noon.

A mobile unit professionally staffed and operated by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness will be stationed at the Lee Park Recreation Center and the screening will take place at the location. The project is sponsored locally by the Venice Lions.

This marks the first time that a mobile glaucoma screening unit has been brought to this community and local residents are being urged to take advantage of the opportunity to have their eyes tested for glaucoma. The test will be given without charge to all who are aged 35 and over.

Purpose of the screening is to find unknown cases of glaucoma which can lead to blindness if not discovered and treated promptly.

The test is painless and takes just a short time to complete. Morris said.

600 Sign Petitions to Urge Peace in Vietnam

A group of Quad-City area volunteers obtained approximately 600 signatures during the weekend on petitions urging President Nixon to reach an agreement for ending the Vietnam war at the Paris peace talks.

Britton K. Knight, Granite City coordinator of the project, said the signatures were obtained by the volunteers at Schermer's Market in Madison, National Food Store, the Tri-City Grocery at Bellemeur Village Shopping Center, Kroger's and Gaston's drug store at Nameoki Village Shopping Center, and the W. T. Grant Co. store.

The petitions, which were circulated here in a nation-wide movement by peace groups, urge President Nixon to "keep your pre-election promise by not only signing but also implementing the agreement without further delay."

New Booklet Aids Couples Seeking Genetic Counseling

By PEGGY TOLINS

John and Mary Robinson loved their first child who was physically damaged and mentally retarded due to a birth defect, but they yearned for a normal, healthy child. Did they dare risk another pregnancy that might have the same heartbreaking outcome?

In a new booklet, "Genetic Counseling," published by The National Foundation-March of Dimes, you'll find the happy ending to this true dilemma. The concern is many times daily in doctors' offices and clinics.

The Robinsons had their healthy baby, leaving in advance through genetic counseling that there was little risk of a tragic recurrence.

There has been increasing information about genetic counseling in newspapers and magazines in recent years, but until the appearance of the booklet there was no simple, comprehensive reference for parents to turn to when their family doctor suggested consultation with a genetic counselor.

The booklet explains the basic principles of heredity and how counselors figure the odds on whether a genetic defect may be passed on to the next generation. It tells the difference between an inherited abnormality and one which may have been caused by a non-inherited, "accidental," environmental "agent," while the fetus was developing in the womb.

The majority of birth defects are caused by the interaction of hereditary and environmental factors. The counselor can help assess the part each may play in certain conditions.

Need for Counseling

Although the John and Mary Robinson of the world are likely to seek help, as are couples with other family members who have had abnormalities believed to be hereditary, many other people would benefit by genetic counseling who don't know it exists or how it can help them.

When genetic studies are completed in a family, they are advised of the courses open to them, but not until they take. The counselor will try to help them decide whether it would be best to have children, not to have them, or to adopt children, but, the choice is theirs alone. It's easier to make a decision when all the pros and cons and their reasons are at hand.

There are accurate carrier detection tests for use in counseling individuals at high risk for certain traits. Some may be "simple blood tests" such as the one for sickle cell trait. Some defects can be detected before birth by amniocentesis, a procedure for withdrawing amniotic fluid which surrounds the fetus in this fluid or the cells it contains reveal if the fetus has or does not have the suspected disorder.

Every day the importance of genetic disorders is becoming more widely recognized by doctors, and they are referring more and more patients to counseling centers. Concerned individuals are also becoming aware of the need for genetic counseling when they wonder whether the condition of another family member is hereditary. Where to go?

Availability

Many medical and teaching hospitals throughout the country have either opened a genetic clinic within the last few years, or they've expanded existing services. Smaller community hospitals, far from medical centers, have established periodic clinics which professional consultants visit regularly. The March of Dimes supports many genetic units throughout the country.

Genetic counseling and the procedures it involves have saved would-be parents from torturous hours of trying to make a decision based on guesswork, misinformation, or a toss of the coin. Now, as a further aid, the booklet "Genetic Counseling," is available through local March of Dimes chapters.

EIU Director Says

Employment Future for Grads Is Stabilizing

The employment future for Eastern Illinois University graduates is "stabilizing and encouraging," Jay Knott, placement director, said today.

More optimistic than a year ago, Knott based his judgment on facts shown in the 1972 placement report. Teaching positions were accepted by 85% of the current teacher certification degree graduates, two percent less than a year ago. However, the difference between 1970 and 1971 was 12%.

In actual numbers, 644 teacher certification graduates were placed this year, compared to 616 in 1971 and 618 in 1970.

Citing the sharply decreased rate of non-placements since 1971, Bob Jones, assistant director, looked ahead to 1973.

"Graduates who will be successful in obtaining teaching positions will seek more diligently for fewer reported teaching vacancies. Teaching positions will be available in all fields; however, competition for positions in most fields will be very keen."

Knott is equally optimistic about employment chances of graduates with non-certification degrees. Of the 320 B.S., B.A., and B.S. in business graduates in 1972 who registered with the Placement Office, 282 were placed in business-industry jobs. Of the 416 who registered in 1971, 197 were placed.

Salaries were up in both teaching and business categories. Average salary for experienced teachers of all levels was $7,666, a $248 hike over 1971. Average salary for all business placements was $8,562, an increase of $80.

Eastern's Placement Report indicates that the supply and demand theory is still functioning in the teaching field. Surpluses are still dominated by history and social studies while availability of teachers is low in mathematics, physical science and library science.

Speech correction specialists are in high demand. There is an adequate number of qualified teachers in programs involving the educable mentally handicapped and the trainable mentally handicapped, according to this report.

The placement report concludes that supplies of elementary teachers appear adequate to meet immediate needs, although administrators are trying to recruit additional male teachers in the elementary area.

While at ISYM, pupils live with counselors in university residence halls; many of the free ISYM programs and contests were presented last year—are in the famous U. of I. Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

All-inclusive fee for a student in residence at a two-week camp is $150 with an official recording of his group, or $125 without; the commuter's fee is $50 with the recording, $45 without. Many ISYM participants have full or partial scholarships; these often are provided through their home-town schools, churches, or music or school organizations.

Schedule of 1973 ISYM camp is:

- June 17-20: Senior Bands, Senior Strings, Junior Choral, Intermediate Piano, Master Flute, Percussion, and Jazz.
- July 1-12: Junior Bands, Senior Orchestra, Senior Wind Ensemble, Senior Choral, Junior Strings, and Senior Piano.
- July 15-27: Additional Junior Bands, Junior Orchestras, High School Composers, Intermediate Flute, High School Organ, Oboe-Bassoon, and Guitar.

Robert Schaefer, ISYM registrar, emphasized that there are particular opportunities for musical improvement in the senior orchestras, bands and choruses. However, all camps have their own faculties of specialists in their fields.

Registration blanks may be obtained from him or school music instructors and supervisors. Addition sheets are required of all prospective students. Tapes also are "musts" for all except those enrolled last year, or those applying for the junior and senior choruses.

About 1,400 student musicians will be accepted. Schaefer said. For its student body, ISYM last year had 114 instructors.

Illinois Summer Youth Music is not a recreation camp, Knott said. It offers each student an intensive music study experience. However, recreation augments each full day of music.

A class in innovations in education will include class visits to modern schools for observation of modular scheduling, team teaching, and upgraded classrooms and other innovations.

A class in advertising theory and practice will have visiting lecturers from St. Louis advertising firms and will tour one firm.

A course of fundamentals of radio and television will include extensive observation of work and procedures at Kmox radio and Kmoxtv television.

There also will be internships in school administration and applied psychology, including one in academic administration in the office of the McKendree vice-president for academic affairs.

The record for distance will go to a group of 14 studying in Paris. Second will be a seminar in sociology and off-Broadway theater in New York City. This class will be studied on campus, followed by two weeks in New York City where the students primarily will attend performances.

Courses on campus will be of an in-depth nature with longer class periods and with heavy emphasis on independent study and readings.

Courses include botany, a seminar in arts and crafts, literature of the South, study of the film, literature of American history, readings in the history of higher education, health and risk aid, basketball theory and technique, physical education organization and administration, human relations, Spanish for reading and public issues.

Public Issues is taught by a visiting professor, Irving Dillard of Collinsville, former editor of the editorial pages of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and a professor at Princeton.

Firm Presents Research Books To GC Schools

Granite City schools have received Compton's Encyclopedia and Compton's Precyclopedia, Edward H. Denning, of the F. E. Compton Co., division manager in this area, worked with the Granite City schools to make this educational resource available here.

Compton's Encyclopedia was placed top position on the Merit Rating Chart of Recommended Encyclopedias in the latest edition of General Encyclopedias in Print. This is an independent rating that helps consumers evaluate the worth of the many encyclopedias now on the market.

Compton's Precyclopedia features the copyrighted Fact-Index, using the Fact-Index, students can find articles in popular magazines, maps, charts and illustrations in the main text. A big bonus in the Facit-index is that more than 24,000 entries are short articles not included in the main text. Fact entries are also listed in the cross-referencing means that, whether you check the main text or the Facit-index, you will find the answer to your question. Throughout the Fact-index are thousands of photographs and illustrations—more in fact than the main text—coverage exploration and discovery.

The writing style found in Compton's is lively and interesting. It reflects the best to be found in non-fiction prose. Reading Compton's is a lot like reading serious articles in popular magazines. Facts are presented in an easy-to-read and easy-to-remember fashion.

Compton's Precyclopedia, is unique as a reference and designed for youngsters 2 years old to about 10. While it was created by educators, it was tested right from the start by "experts"—a group of children who told the adults what they'd use and what they'd

Each of the 16-volume includes activity pages. These include children in a variety of learning activities which aid in intellectual, social, physical and emotional growth. Emphasis is placed on "self-awareness" and "community-awareness" to help the child learn more about himself and about others around him. The activities range from role-playing to storytelling, to make-believe games, to many outdoor activities including a number of "learning walks."

Young children are chock full of questions. The precyclopedia helps them learn right from the start how to get their answers. Intellectually, 50% of a child's intellectual development takes place by the time he's 4 years old, 80% by 8 years old. With the precyclopedia, they learn answers to many of their questions. Just as important, they learn how to find answers—they learn valuable research skills that will serve them in the future whenever they have a question.

New Method of Teaching Spurs Interest in Skiing

By GEORGE HOWER
Copley News Service

The dark figure of the skier schussed down the ski run, leaving behind only an occasional plume of dry, powdery snow and ski marks that traced his path.

Years ago, beginning ski students might have looked up and despaired at ever getting to be that good. But not today.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Page 32 Thurs., Jan. 4, 1973

is known as GLM. That stands for Graduated Length Method and it's based on the idea that beginners should take their first lessons on short skis.

Beginners' skis now may be no longer than four or five feet. As the skier improves in skill and gains confidence, he, or she, as the case may be, will gradually move onto increasingly longer skis until ready for regular length skis.

Next to snow, reports the Professional Ski Instructors of America, GLM is the greatest thing to happen to skiing. Because of GLM, says the PSIA, more people last year took ski lessons than ever before.

PSIA figures that 1,000,000 first-time skiers enrolled in ski schools last year. Why the difference? For one thing, beginners used to find themselves outfitted with heavy (20-pound) regulation skis. Beginners found them to be awkward to walk on, uncontrollable, and tiring. Even a pound or two wrapped around the ankles or attached to the feet will tire you after a few minutes. This unnecessarily fatigued skiers, and tired skiers are all the more likely to be hurt. Sometimes skiers wanted to go one way. Their regulation size skis wanted to go another way. The skis usually won. But some venturesome and inquisitive ski instructors did some experimenting and came to one major conclusion: Long skis are fine. When you're moving fast — like going downhill.

But, beginners don't move that fast. So they don't need long skis.

The logical conclusion was that students could be introduced to the basic ski movements on skis as short as four feet long.

The new teaching method is also called the American Teaching Method. Now students find they don't tire and they can change the direction of their skis merely by shifting their feet. Today's short skis are made of new metals and synthetic materials. They're lighter. Being lighter, they're easier to turn, and beginners make faster progress than ever before. As a result, it's not uncommon for a person to be a "beginner" in the morning and be hitting lifts by afternoon. Ulf, the mythical god of skiing, has a lot of company on the slopes now. Thanks to GLM.

Stephens Stars At Benedictine

Former Granite City High School wrestling star T. Craig Stephens must have had an enjoyable Christmas knowing that his mat career at Illinois Benedictine was off to an outstanding start.

Although only a freshman, Stephens was unbeaten in his first four matches as a collegiate grappler. He won first place in the heavyweight category at the recent Spartan Invitational, beating three opponents, and then pinned his opponent in the first period during a dual match that Benedictine won 3-2.

His coach at Illinois Benedictine, Gene Cavich, has called the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stephens, 1712 Venice, a "promising young heavyweight with an excellent high school background." Stephens was district champion for Coach Bill Schmidt at Granite City and was sectional runner-up.

A 240-pounder, Craig also played football at Granite City and at Illinois Benedictine, a four-year private college located in the Chicago suburb of Lisle.

Prof. Kendall to Tour Europe During Winter

John Kendall, music professor at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will spend the winter quarter lecturing, demonstrating and holding workshops in string teaching in Sweden, England, Ireland and Scotland.

One of the first American string teachers to become interested in Shinichi Suzuki's talent education methods, Kendall has been making trips to Japan since 1959 to work with Suzuki and observe first hand his "listen and play" techniques.

Kendall has written teaching manuals, made recordings and lectured in more than 40 states on this technique, which operates on the premise that "any child with normal mental ability to learn to speak by petition of sound can learn to play the violin by the same method, even as early as age three."

Kendall received his bachelor of music degree from Oberlin Conservatory and his master's degree in music education from Columbia University. Before coming to SIUE in 1963, he had been head of the music department at Muskingum College for 15 years.

A former concertmaster of the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra, Kendall is first violinist with the Lincoln Quartet, in residence at SIUE, and conductor of the SIUE Chamber Orchestra.

Dr. Hook, Medicine Show Full of Smiles, Tears

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

Doctor Hook & The Medicine Show want to share a lot of smiles and tears with you on their latest album for Columbia Records called "Sloppy Seconds." It's another zany package which travels the same roads as "Dr. Hook," their previous release.

Shel Silverstein penned the lyrics and the music for group. He has handed them a well-written variety of novel and nonsense songs that go from acoustic rock to powerful ballads. Dr. Hook, led by the emotional, but controlled vocals of Ray Sawyer, applies their music and together they come up with an interesting and humorous album.

The seven-member group has made a hit with "The Cover of 'Rolling Stone'" and it's by far one of the most powerful tracks on the LP. As for the ballads, try "Last Mornin'."

"Freaker's Ball" is sure to make it on FM play. If you like the Dr.'s style, pick up their "Dr. Hook." It contains their super hit, "Sylvia's Mother" and some novelty songs like "Call That True Love," "Makin' It Natural" and "Hey, Lady Godiva." Plus a few emotional goodies like "Kiss It Away," "When She Cries" and "Judy."

Dr. Hook is a very talented group which takes its music seriously and still allows a laugh.

Simple Facts

Judging from his album "Weatherly," on RCA, Jim Weatherly seems like an all right, ordinary type of guy. This stems from the fact that he makes his music very easy to identify with. Jim sings about some of the familiar but seldom thought about simple facts of life. He also sings beautiful, sometimes sad, but beautiful love songs. You might call his style popular with country flavoring. He wrote the entire L.P. and complements the songs with his rich, full voice. Some of the nicest cuts include "Loving You Is Just An Old Habit," "Once In A Lifetime Thing," "Between His Goodbye and My Hello" and "Midnight Train To Houston."

"The Ship — A Contemporary Folk Music Journal" (Elektra label) is a new release in the tradition of the old-time sea chanteys — a narrative set to music with a haunting, minor tune.

The music was written by Steve Meleschker (6 string guitar, 2nd lead, vocals) and Steve Cowan (12 string guitar and vocals). The other members of The Ship are Steve Reinwand (lead guitar, dobro, mouth harp, vocals), Mark Hamby (piano, flute, vocals), Todd Bradshaw (4 and 8 string bass) and Tim Scott (cello).

The style of The Ship is strongly reminiscent of the early Kingston Trio — a fine blending of voices and instruments. The lyrics to the songs are printed on the inner flap of the jacket fold so that you may sing along if you like. And after hearing the infectious rhythms of "The Ship," my guess is that you will.

Pure Magic Music — You mix Louis Armstrong, Ella Fitzgerald, Oscar Peterson, Ray Brown, Herb Ellis, Buddy Rich and Louis Bellson with some Gershwin, Porter and Berlin songs — and what you have is Class with a double capital C. Pure magic music on the Verve LP "Ella & Louis." This is Ella singing strong and clear — before she tangled her voice up in the far-out stuff. A perfect up in the guttural Satchmo. You realize again —

Oldtime Illinois Inaugural Balls Attracted Big Crowds

Springfield Inaugurations and inaugural balls have become the most interesting January events in recent Illinois history.

But long before the inaugural balls, when the legislative sessions began in December, the creation of new counties was the most noteworthy activity of the month.

Also, a number of milestones in Abraham Lincoln's career bear January dates.

The first inaugural ball celebrated the swearing in of Gov. John R. Tanner on Jan. 11, 1807, and was held in the State Capitol. The House of Representatives served as the ballroom, the State Library was the banquet hall, and the Senate chamber was used as a promenade.

The second inaugural ball was not held until 28 years later when Gov. Len Small began his second term Jan. 12, 1825. It was in the State Arsenal in Springfield and was sponsored by the Hamilton Club of Chicago.

When Gov. Louis L. Emerson took office on Jan. 15, 1829, the ball was an extremely formal affair and the crowd at the Arsenal was estimated at ten thousand.

By the time Gov. Henry Horner was inaugurated for his first term on Jan. 9, 1833, the Great Depression had begun and the governor requested that the ceremonies be made as simple as possible.

A "Citizens' Committee," however, sponsored an informal dance at the Arsenal.

When Horner was inaugurated for his second term on Jan. 11, 1837, the economic outlook was evidently brighter because the ball was sponsored by the Springfield Chamber of Commerce. The State Arsenal had burned on Feb. 18, 1834, so the celebration returned to the Capitol.

An estimated 20,000 guests attended the inaugural ball at the beginning of Gov. Dwight H. Green's first term on Jan. 13, 1941.

The main ball in the new State Arsenal on the old Arsenal site, and there was an auxiliary dance in the Capitol.

There was no inaugural ball at the beginning of Green's second term (Jan. 8, 1945) because of World War II.

After the war and with the inauguration of Adlai E. Stevenson on Jan. 10, 1949, the inaugural ball tradition was resumed and seven thousand danced that night at the Arsenal.

Gov. William G. Stratton began both of his terms (Jan. 12, 1883 and Jan. 14, 1887) with inaugural balls held in the Arsenal and private receptions and dinners at the Governor's Mansion.

Gov. Otto Kernier repeated his program (on Jan. 9, 1861 and Jan. 11, 1865) and added dancing in the Capitol for the overflowed attendance.

When Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie took office on Jan. 13, 1969, he introduced a week-long series of inaugural events including an interfaith religious service, a community breakfast, receptions, luncheons and an inaugural concert at Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

There were three inaugural balls in Springfield on Jan. 17, at the Arsenal, Capitol and the Holiday Inn East.

Before the Constitution of 1848, the legislature met in December.

In that period, more new counties were chartered in January than in any other month—44 of the state's 102.

Nine central Illinois counties can celebrate their birthdays together because they were chartered on the same date—the most for any one day, Jan. 13, 1825.

They are Adams, Hancock, Henry, Knox, Mercer, Peoria, Putnam, Schuyler and Warren.

Five northern counties also have the same birthday, Jan. 16, 1836: Kane, McHenry, Ogle, Whiteside and Winnebago.

Abraham Lincoln, who began the first of his four terms in the state House of Representatives on Dec. 1, 1834, was serving when many of the 44 January counties were chartered.

He was absent for several days in January 1841 due to an emotional crisis that resulted in a break in his engagement to Mary Todd.

They were married in November of the following year and on Jan. 16, 1844, he purchased the only home they ever owned—now the Lincoln Home National Historic Site. The price was $12,000 for a downtown Springfield business lot.

January 1861 was a particularly busy month for Lincoln. As President-elect, he was besieged by visitors, office-seekers and others, and was planning net appointments and writing the first draft of his Inaugural Address.

On the last two days of the month, he paid a farewell visit to his stepmother, Sarah Bush

Mitchell.

Tough Penalties for Drivers With Tires Having Any of Eight Defects

Copley News Service

Springfield—There's a new trend in trends in Illinois.

A new law, which was signed in September by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, sets up specific standards for "unsafe" tires on passenger vehicles either sold or used in the state. The new law became effective the first of January.

Under the new law, badly worn and balding tires, as well as racing slicks, cannot be used on open highways under penalty of fines or jail or both.

Actual enforcement rules are to be set out, according to the statute, by the Transportation Department secretary, and penalties will be the same as those of the general penalty section of the motor vehicle code.

These would provide for fines up to $300 and possible jail sentences up to 30 days for the first and second offenses.

Anyone convicted of three or more violations within a year could get as much as six months in jail and a fine up to $500. Since violations will be considered as moving violations, they may also impair the offender's driver's license.

While the previous laws on the books already gave police the right to issue tickets for driving on unsafe tires if an officer believed the tires were so bad they constituted unsafe or load conditions which with equipment, the new law spells out precisely what an unsafe tire is.

Eight specific standards are set out, including:

- having any part of a ply or cord exposed.
- having tread or sidewall cracks, cuts, snags or other surface interruptions, deep enough to expose ply or cord.
- any bulge, knot or separation on a tire.
- tread wear indicators which are flush with the tread on the outer surfaces or two or more adjacent grooves, at three places around the tire's circumference.
- tread depth less than one-sixteenth of an inch measured in two or more adjacent grooves spaced around the circumference of the tire (except on vehicles for sale or lease, where a tread depth of less than 3/32 of an inch is considered unsafe).
- racing slicks or other tires bearing markings indicating they are not intended for street use.
- regrooved or recut tires, regrooved to a point below the original tread depth, except for special regroovable or "hack" tubes of tires which have extra under tread rubber, and are so marked.
- any other condition or markings showing on tires which make them unsuitable for highway use, such as inflation or load conditions which are seriously at variance with

GRANTMASTER TIRE GUARANTEE

1. Tread Life Guarantee Against Road Hazards
We guarantee all Grantmaster tires against failures from all normal road hazards for the life of the tread with the exception of ordinary nail punctures, fire, theft, front-end misalignment, under-inflation, over-inflation and running flat.

2. Tread Life Guarantee Against Defects
We guarantee the Grantmaster tires against all defects of material and workmanship for the life of the tread.

Ratio of Adjustment: Should your Grantmaster tire require adjustment under Section 1 or 2 of the Guarantee, please return it to Grants and we will replace it by giving you a proportionate allowance for the unused tread based on the current selling price, including Federal Excise Tax.

3. Guaranteed Against Tread Wear
The original tread is guaranteed not to wear out for the number of months designated. If tread wears out during this period, the tire should be returned to Grants and we will replace it, charging the current regular selling price plus Federal Excise Tax less the following percentage allowance toward the purchase of a new tire.

Tire Guarantee	Allowance
18-27 Months	10%
28-45 Months	25%

This guarantee covers tires in passenger car service only. Passenger car tires used in commercial service reduce the guarantee period by 50%.
